It appropriates $150,000 for the construction and equipment of the institution, and $50,000 for maintenance. The governor is to appoint an advisory board of three doctors, but the sanitarium is to be under the board of control. The advisory board is to serve from May 1 to the completion of the sanitarium. There is to be a commission of six physicians to examine applicants and to reject incurables. Those patients who are able to pay for their maintenance, and poor patients are to be admitted at

He was asked how it was that the $1 .-000,000 asked for two years ago was not enough and whether there would not be a request for more at the next session of the legislature. Col. Graves explained these matters, and said that the money asked for would certainly complete the capitol.

Judge Rosenwald, the new gentleman from Lac Qui Parle, is nothing it not jertinacious. He took up the report of the committee on rules, in creasing the number of house em ployes, again today and wanted to have the motion to reconsider the vote approving the committee's report taken from the table. It was lost and the matter was again disposed of, but it can be brought up again if any one is L. H. The Pacific Express has issued similar instructions to all of its agents. This is in pursuance of a plan recently decided upon by E. H. Harriman, of New York.

The Southern Pacific is a large holder of Wells Fargo stock, and Mr. Harriman is a director in the latter and chairman of its executive committee. The first and only ballot resulted: Reed

Smoot, 35; Congressman George Sutherland, 4; George M. Cannon, 2; Governor Herbert M. Wells, 2. One citizen has advanced the theory that he entered the house, materialized, then dematerialized again, and left while in that peculiar immaterial state. If this theory is rejected the police say he must have been a very accomplished burglar, for both doors of the house were firmly locked, and the windows of the house had storm sashes. None of these showed any signs of having been disturbed. Miss Wright's story is that she was one of the burglars, was similar to one exception of a 3-year-old child, which awakened by a noise in her room, about 10 o'clock, and saw a man standing facing the mirror. Miss Wright left the room while the man was thus engaged thought that the man was preparing to descend, and she left, clad only in her night robe and fled to her home, half a Street Railway System Running Near Limit on Power.

A blizzard or heavy snow storm at the present time would tie up the street railway systems at the head of the lakes pretty badly. The large engine at the power house in Superlor, which furnishes the power for the system over there, has broken down and it will be two weeks before it is again in repair. A smaller engine is now in service and to make up for its deficiency the system at Superior has been connected with the Duluth circuit. The power on the Duluth side is none too much, but the ears have been able to operate thus far without inconvenience on this side. A sudden demand for heavy power, such as would be brought by a storm, would seriously interfere with traffic, however. REGULATE GRAZING

Is the Plea of the Cattle Raisers to Congress.

Laws Governing Use of Public Laws Are Obsolete.

Resolutions Passed By National Live Stock Convention.

Kansas City, Jan. 15 .- At the third day's session of the National Live Stock convention many papers were read and discussed and a flood of resolutions were introduced and considered. The convention will finish its work tomorrow and will be followed on Saturday by the annual meeting of the National Wool Growers' association, at which meeting many important matters will be taken up.

A. Robinson, of Texas, resterday introduced a resolution, calling for the amendment of the law regulating the grazing on public lands and approving the leasing of such lands in states where such a policy is desired by the people. This was referred to the executive committee, and finally laid upon the table. In its place a substitute, prepared by a cattleman, and said to be approved by sheepmen and by many of the cattlemen, was endorsed. The

The laws governing the use of the public lands of the United States have become outgrown owing to the rapid advance of civilization, and that the time has come for action by congress in laws recognizing the changed conditions, encouraging settlement and land for grazing purposes. The resolu tion endorses the suggestion of President Roosevelt, that a larger area of semi-arid lands be allowed for a homestead and that a commission of experts be appointed to investigate the present existing condition, and suggest to congress just and fair remedies that will assist the growth of the West. The resolution urges at once a memorial that body to act quickly on the suggestion of President Roosevelt, and sug ast new laws which will apply to sections. It says the principal obstacle that has prevented the stockmen from agreeing among themselves upon a plan for a change in the laws, as the law that would benefit one section would cause loss and ruin to-another, where different conditions prevailed. Among the addresses at the morning session was one by Hon. William M.

Mr. It is a said in part:
The grazing lands. The campaign of education begun by this association at its meeting in Fort Worth and actively rescuted by various live stock organizations in the West has produced the ex-pected effect. The country is better in-formed than ever before as to the conditions which are yearly abridging the most economical production of cattle and sheep. 'that production was upon the semi arid ranges of the west, where it is estimated there are four hundred million acres for which grazing will be the sole se. It is the largest, and was the best took runge in the world. Its forage has een destroyed and its potential wealth has disappeared through its tree use in common by all comers. About that vast range the East has held totally incorrect ideas. To the eastern mind it has appeared as equal to the prairie lands of the upper Mississippl, fertile and ready for the homesteader. Thanks to the light shed abroad by the advocates of irrigation it is now established that this grazing domain the property of all the people has an industry that hus conferred vast benefits upon the nation. The government should maintain public ownership of the ranges and protect its forage by leasing it in guitable tracts to the hardy men The long litigation started when in March, 1900, a policeman picked up the aged and eccentric miser. Fifty-six robberies in less than four months-that is a total which is giving the country banker many an uncomfortable hour nowadays, especially as it is only a continuation of the progressive increase in this knd of crime, which has been going on for eight

A table made up for the American Banker of April 20 f. 1901, showed that between Jan. 1. 1895, and that time 207 country banks had been robbed by burglars. The summary for the year from Sept. 15; 1901, to Sept. 15, 1902, was:

Burglaries on banks non-mem-bers of the American Bankers' association Burglaries on banks members of the American Bankers'; associ-Amount obtained by burglars from banks members of the American Bankers association 23,539

The average amount of booty carried away in the 83 successful bank burglaries of that year was $1,843.11. As the proceeds had to be divided in most cases by half a dozen men, there was about $300 for each-or there would have been $300 for each had there been a pro rata division. That there was such a division, however, is not to be supposed, for in burglary, as in every other industry, there are captains and lieutenants, high privates and low, and humble water-carriers. There is the "plant hunter," who goes about as a beggar or peddler and finds out where there are safes to be robbed, and he seldom takes part in the actual robbery. Then there are the men, usually two in each gang, who understand the use of explosives and perform the real operation of

And finally there are the "stick up" men, the men who stand outside and shoot at you if you venture on the street or pop your head out of a window-desperate, brutal fellows who would as soon kill you as not, and a little rather if you happened to be a policeman, constable or watchman. An examination of the records of bank burglary for many years back will show that, while the big cities have become apparently immune from this kind of crime, the peril of the small town has been constantly on the increase. Not in a generation has safemaking have put the Jimmy Hopes out of the business. Criminals of that order of ability have turned their at tention to other things.

OUTPUT

Of Coal Was Restricted By Orders of Union.

Philadelphia, Jan. 15.—Chairman Gray of the anthracite coal strike commission, who has been absent from the hearings of the commission for about a week on account of illness, was present at today's session. Before calling witnesses, counsel for the Erie company, which controls the Hillside Coal & Iron company and the Pennsylvania Coal company, introduced as evidence certain extracts from reports of state mine inspectors tending to show that most mine accidents are due to the negligence of the workmen themselves. The first witness was Samuel J. Jennings, general foreman of the Hillside company, who was on the stand yesterday. His testimony Victor L. Peterson, of Scranton, superintendent of the Hillside company and formerly president of the Forest City bank, presented a statement showing the depositors were mine workers. The commission sustained the objection and witness promised to present a statement which would overcome the Mr. Peterson co-oborated the testimony given yesterday to the effect that the union miners do not load as many cars as they did before the strike of 1900. The witness then told of the lawlessness in the vicinity of Forest City during the late strike, Mr. Peterson on re-cross-examination, said that foremen and other bosses sometimes make mistakes, and cited instances of insubordination by miners. Some of these instance, he said, were due to the influence of the union. The witness thought the union ought to change some of its ways. On the question of the union restricting the number of cars each miner should load, the witness admitted that he did not think the total output of the mines was restricted. He did not know why some of the workmen wanted to load only six cars a day except that some of the employes said six cars a day was enough.

In reply to Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Peterson said he did not know whether the men at the present time are getting out all the coal they possibly ean. He did not know, however, that since the strike ended the men have been responsible for some of the lost time. H. C. MacMillan, of West Pittston. assistant superintendent of the Pennsylvania Coal company, testified that the relations between the company and the men, prior to the strike of 1900, was always pleasant. He also said Missouri—had not been taken back because of acts of lawlessners. Theo. Hogan, of Avoca, a mine foreman of the Pennsylvania Coal company, said that prior to the advent of the Miners' union, the relations be-tween employer and employe were pleasant. He said that President Dempsey, of the Moosic local union, notified him in November, 1900, that the miners should send out only a certain number of cars each day. He said Dempsey told him the union had decided to restrict the output of anthra-

SEEKS RICH TREASURE.

Charles Hunter and Mark Jones, of Lansing, Mich., are in Joplin searching for a rich deposit of silver. Hunter has passed the seventy-year mark, but is still hale and hardy. Both men are at work with pick and shovel along the banks of Shoal Creek, near this city, writes the Joplin correspondent of the New York World. Mr. Hunter tells tho following story:
"I traveled west through this country of four "I traveled west through this country in 1853. I was one of a party of four, and our destination was California. One night we camped at Carthage, Mo., and the next night we were twenty miles further west. I figure that we must have been near the site of Joplin, although there was nothing here then but hills and hollows.

"That night we were attacked by a band of outlaws, our horses were stolen band of outlaws, our horses were stolen and two of our party were killed. I and a comrade were taken into captivity. From the scene of the fight the outlaws took us south about ten miles, where they camped until morning. After ridding us of everything of value they delivered us into the keeping of three Indians. The white men then took their leave and we were left in charge of the redskins, who took us further south, and at noon we camped on the bank of a creek.

It was near this spring that the Indians removed a large slab of stone, and with their axes cut away pleces of silver big enough to make large silver ornaments. Our captors then showed us the spot and attempted to explain the value of the deposit. The rocks on either side of the spring were seamed with veins of white metal. "About a year ago my interest in the affair was revived, when I met Mark Jones, who is with me now. He had heard of my story and persuaded me to make a search. Of course, civilization has made vast changes in the topography of the country, but I believe, with the ald of Mr. Jones, I will eventually discover the buried treasure."

HANNON IS ARRAIGNED

Hibbing Saloon Man Is Charged With Second Degree Murder.

Is Alleged to Have Fatally Shot Charles Ness.

Examination Has Been Postponed Until Jan. 24.

Charged with murder in the second degree, Richard Hannon was arraigned in police court this morning. He is the Hibbing saloon man that shot Charles Ness on Nov. 26 last and inflicted wounds from which Mr. Ness died at St. Mary's hospital yesterday

In spite of the fact that the crime charged is punishable by imprisonment for life, Hannon was not visibly affected as he stood before Judge Windom. He looked more like a man being arraigned for some petty offense, such as spitting in a street car or the

Mr. Hughes of Hibbing would be here to represent him, so the court fixed the day of examination for Jan. 24 with the understanding that Hannon could wave it if he and his attorney should

He was then taken back to the ounty jail, escaping the crowded-corridor ordeal that others in his predicament have sald was worse than the trial for life itself. The fact that he is charged with murder does not necessarily say that he will be found guilty of that or even evidence to prove that he and Ness had an argument in the saloon, Ness claiming that he had ordered a drink of whisky and Hannon insisting that Hanon struck Ness on the head with bottle, sending him down in a halfsitting attitude. As he was rising to his full height again, Hannon reached over the bar and shot. The bullet entered one of Ness' legs at the knee, fracturing several bones. The wound was not considered serious at first, but complications set in and he was brought to this city for treatment two weeks after the shooting.

As the result of these complications he died yesterday, and the warrant charging Hannon with second degree murder states specifically that the shooting was without premeditation or deliberation. The body of Ness is still at the undertaking rooms of Durkan & Crawford, but arrangements for the funeral will be made this evening by a brother-ln-law, who will arrive from Stanley,

Certain cisco, and the prospective opening of the new mint at Denver, have provided and will provide a much greater coinage than the country has heretofore had. On the other hand, the pressure upon the mints will relax rather than increase. The coinage of 1,500,000 silver dollars per month, now required by law, will soon come to an end. This requirement now calls for a coinage equal to the entire capacity of the New Orleans mint. New York, Jan. 15 .-- It is no longer "the Four Hundred." Mrs. William Astor, the at her annual ball Monday night at her obtained in the past, the inner society circles of New York must be known as "the Five Hundred and Fifty." It was Mrs. Astor, through Ward Mc-Alister, who set the original limit of 400 upon the number eligible to attend her upon the number eligible to attend her annual receptions. She was then, as she is now, the acknowledged leader of society. Ward McAlister, who was the right-hand man of Mrs. Astor, in social affairs, assisted her in making up the list and the designation of the 400 as applied to society grew out of Mr. McAlister's remark made in Delmonico's, that only that number of persons were to be considered as being in real society.

The expansion of the list was inevitable, on account of the many new persons clamoring for recognition, but it has been slow in coming. Life out of doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make, comes the greater part of that healthful development which is so essential to their happiness when grown. When a laxative is needed the remedy which is given to them to cleanse and sweeten and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts, should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from every objectionable quality. The one remedy which physicians and parents, well-informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is-Syrup of Figs-and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by fathers and mothers.

Syrup of Figs is the only remedy which acts gently, pleasantly and naturally without griping, irritating, or nauseating and which cleanses the system effectually, without producing that constipated habit which results from the use of the oldtime cathartics and modern imitations, and against which the children should be so carefully guarded. If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them medicines, when medicines are not needed, and when nature needs assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle-Syrup of Figs.

Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic syrups and juices, but also to our original method of manufacture and as you value the health of the little ones, do

The advance was checked again before the recovery had reached generally to last night's level. Later Chesapeake & Ohio running sales of 2700 shares of the Erie night's level. Later Chesapeake & Oh was lifted a point with some sympthetic effect on the general list. The lack of authentic information as to the reason or the large market movement in the Eries kept speculation in check and the market was soft under any selling. St. Louis & San Francisco lost 14. Ice rose a point and the preferred 1%. Bonds were irregular at poon sugar dropped to below 130 and the undertone of the market was heavy. Only a few stocks were traded in at all. A demand developed for Amalgamated, which carried it a point over last night. Meantime Sugar went lower and the general market continued sluggish and irregular. Michigan Central recovered 9 points of yesterday's 45%-point break. Lackawan-na fell 2 points.

The price movement was exceedingly narrow, Amalgamated lost its gain and Eric fell more than a point below last night. The latter movement caused some increase in the selling pressure, and prices fell to about the lowest. Sugar lost 2% and U. S. Express 2%. The closing was dull and easy. Stock quotations reported for The Herald by W. H. Laidley & Co., 423 West Superior street. Closing prices are bid prices:

London, Ont., Jan. 15.-Walter Herbert, who by his own confession is a murderer, was today formally acquitted of the charge of murder by a jury and discharged by Chief Justice Meredith at the fall assizes. Herbert confessed that he and Gerald Sifton killed Joseph Stifton, Gerald's father, in 1900. Gerald was twice tried and acquitted at the second trial. After his acquittai there was nothing for the crown to do but discharge Herbert, who was then in jail awaiting sentence. It is believed to be the first time in the history of Canada that a confessed murderer has escaped punishment.

SUSPICION REMOVED

Charles A. Brintison, Former Presbyterian Janitor, Innocent.

Herald Glad to Assist In Removing Suspicion From Him.

New equipment and more Circumstances Which Caused Publication of the Article.

> Tuesday evening The Herald pubished an article which indicated that a former custodian of the First Presbyterian church, who happened to be a carpenterwas the man who had probably committed the assult upon Aivah Cornelius, the present janitor, which was made the subject of a sensational article in the morning paper. The article in The Heraid also tended to cast a suspicion upon the same person as being connected with the draining of the water from the church boilers. Charles A. Brintison, of 1101/2 East Fifth street, comes forward, asserting that the description fits him, and demands a retraction, claiming that he is innocent. It seems that Mr. Erintison has been a citizen of Duluth for about thirty-three years, and a lawabiding one, never having had a suspicion cast upon his reputation before ow. The Herald would injure no man willingly and accepts Mr. Brintison's statement that he is entirely innocent of the wrong doing which suspicion has cast upon him, regrets that such an aspersion has been cast upon ments in the article which Ilr. Brintison claims as defamatory to his char-

It is but fair to explain the circumstances which brought the publication Mr. Brintison was custodian of the First Presbyterian church for a number of years. He tendered his resignation several times, but each time received an increase in wages and consented to remain. He again tendered his resignation last spring. It was accepted. Alvah Cornelius was appointed in his place. It is claimed that Mr. Brintison very kindly showed the new custodian his duties and retired, but has frequently been called in to assist in emergencies and while Mr. worked in his place. When teh assault was committed is seemed apparent that some one who was strikingly familiar with the church and the customs of the janitor had been in there, and was probably the assailant. There were circumstances surrounding the affair which tended to throw suspicion toward Mr. Brintison, some of which, as brought to The Herald's attention, are as follows: Mr. Cornelius always left a lantern n the east vestibule of the front entrance. He said he did this to light himself through the church going t and from the boiler room after dark. In the side entrance vestibule, not far from the head of the boiler room stairs there is a gas jet, which burns low when not needed, but which can be made to burn up brightly by simply

Last Saturday night, when Mr. Cornelius went away from the church, he left the side entrance storm door unhooked, but locked the door proper. He did this because he thought Dr. Cleland or some other church officer, having the sidedoor key might want in. It was demonstrated by a church officer, in the presence of the police, that almost any common key would fit the lock of the east side front At about 5 o'clock last Sunday morn-

He knew he left it there the night before. They saw at a glance that the quickest way out, aside from that door, was along the west side of the church to the west front vestibule. In this vestibule they found a pair of black and peculiarly darned mittens on the floor. Mr. Cornelius had swept this floor clean about the last thing the previous night. They found that the doors which he left locked on the inside were unlocked and that they could only have been unlocked from the inside by a person getting out, owing to the manner in which the keys were stuck in the holes. In summing up the case the police learned that the dry ash stick with which the assault was committed was

A detective was sent to the house to confirm this while he remained at the station. Shortly after the detective left Mr. Brintison remembered that he got up shortly before 6 o'clock to make some coffee for his wife.

A detective was sent to the home of Mr. Brintison to see his eye. He got a good look while Mr. Brintison was giving him the address of a relative for whom the stranger asked. Both Mr. Brintison's eyes were slightly discolored, but it is known that he has had trouble with his eyes and there was no clue in that. Later, when Mr. Brintison was away, another detective called at the house and the customs of the church body, passing out through his body, passing out through the left side. Mr. Gonzales says the shooting was entirely without provocation.

It is said that Tiliman and Gonzales have not been on speaking terms since Tillman's campaign for governor, when Mr. Gonzales was so bitterly opposed to him in his race for the gubernatorial nomination. Tillman declines to make a statement

C., Jan. 15-The ili feeling between Lieutenant, Governor Tiliman and Editor Gonzales has been brewing for some time and followed a severe denunciation of Tillman, which Gonzales made in the columns of his paper and on the stump throughout the state. hTe trouble between the two men, however, first grew out of a fight between Senator B. When President Roosevelt withdrew his invitation to a state dinner in Washington which he had sent Senator Tillman because of the fight the latter had in the United States senate, Lieutenant-Governor Tillman refused to present the sword to Col. Jenkins. Mr. Gonzales took up the matter through the columns of his paper, the Daily State, and bitterly denomiced Lieut.-Governor Tillman. He repeated the denunciations made previously on many different occasions and even dared Mr. Tillman to deny the charges he had made. The charges Gonzales made were spread all over the south and made a deep sensation, many uncomplimentary remarks being made in the press of the country because Tillman did not resent the charges. The feeling between the two men was very bitter, and although they had never before had a personal encounter, trouble was expected, and the friends of the two men have been looking for a serious outcome of the case.

Both Gonzales and Tillman have hosts of friends and more trouble may follow today's affair. Gonzales comes from a family noted in this section of the country for courage and nerve.

Kwang Si Rebellion Has Been Greatly Exaggerated.

New York, Jan. 16.-In reference to Kwang Si province, a dispatch to the Times from Shanghal, by the way of London, says that the native papers state that the provincial governor, Wang Chi Chun, purposely permits an increase of brigandage, magnifying the operations of the local banditti into a serious rebellion, with the deliberate purpose of afterwards invoking the assistance of the Prench troops. Stress is laid upon the governor's former record in the Nganwhis province and elsewhere, and his notorious capacity for venality. His recent decoration by the French government does not escape comment. The dispatch also announces that i esponse to the memorial presented the throne by Viceroy Yuan Sheh Kiki, Sheng is permitted to retain control of the government telegraph system to allow of his winding up the

The painting was sold in 1896 to George M. Tynes, a resident of New York and was taken to the United States, where M. Brandus bought it about two years ago on the disposal of Mr. Tynes' collection. M. Brandus brought the picture to Paris and offered it for sale. Mr. Gerome on seeing it discovered that the remarkable (ffect of light produced by the setting sun and rising moon, for which the picture was famous, had been painted out and replaced by respendent sunshine, which admittedly had been done skillfully.

M. Brandus disclaims any connection with or knowledge of the alteration, which is ascribed in art circles to the American purchaser's initiative.

It is said that he was eccentric and caused several famous pictures in his collection to be modified. He bought nudes at the Paris solon and had clothes painted over them. The least artistically offensive of these alleged vandalisms was the embellishing of a beautiful nude by Delacroix, with flowing drapery, while a worse instance was the dressing of a figure of Psyche in a fashionable tailor made gown and a picture hat

VALUE OF TESTIMONY

Greater Than Assertion. There is none of us so hardened but that when we have been able to aid our fellow creatures by conferring a benefit or bringing a little comfort into their lives we like to have appreciation shown. This generally affords more pleasure than the performance of the act itself, and in this connection the following letter from a Texas lady is of more than usual interest: Dear Friends: I address you such, for you have been such to me. I suffered for three years off and on with piles. I was treated at the hospital, and the new and elegant hospital, of Memphis; they only gave me temporary relief. I came west thinking the change of air and water would penefit me; five months ago the bleeding piles came back on me, and bled so much that I thought I would die. "I have had four of the finest doctors in this section of Texas; all they did was to finally nearly let me go to my grave; all they wanted was a big sum of money from me and to operate on me. I said no, no surgeon's knife would enter me; if it was my time to die God knew it, and when I died I would die all together. "I began hearing about your medicine. I had no faith in you, but I sent and got a box of your Pyramid Pile Cure; in two days the blood flow had slackened to one half the amount, and in one week I felt so much better I walked four blocks and did a little housework. I was not bleeding then; in three weeks I was well. "God bless you for putting such a wonderful medicine within the reach of suffering men and women. I shall never cease to recommend your medicine or be without it; also I used your Pyramid Pills. Sallie A. Hearndon, Testimony like this, (for the genuineness of which we vouch,) should be more convincing than all claims and assertions, and should leave no doubt in the mind of the reader as to the merit of the remedy. Pyramid Pile Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package, or will be mailed by the makers to any address upon receipt of price. Write Pyramid Drug Co., cause and cure of Piles.

Butte. Mont., Jan. 16.-Judge E. W. Harney took the witness stand in the Coper company's vast itnerests in this state. It was Judge Harney who instituted the disbarment proceedings, alleging that Shores, together with Charles W. Clark, son of Senator W. A. August Heinze in making a favorable decision in the litigation between the Amalgamated and Heinze over the Minnie Healy, one Harney declared that despite the efhad accepted a bribe from the Heinze people and was a felon and would be sent to the penitentiary unless he confessed his wrong, for which confession Charles W. Before the close of his testimony Attorney Roote declared both Judge Harney and Clark had "heavy loads" on at declared he had been under the impession that Harney was guilty of accepting a bribe of $60,000 from Heinze,, and to Charles W. His companion quickly transferred the small arsenal he was earrying from his right to his left arm and steadled him into a seat. There was no word of complaint from the man apparently so ill, save now and then a deep bass oath that seemed to fall unconsciously from his lips.

"Brayo los Ruvales!" exclaimed the crowd of Mexicans standing around the carriage, who regarded the two strangers with the liveliest respect and awe. It is the most difficult thing in the world to get a ranger to talk about himself, and when the two men were asked about the latest developments at the sent of war at Brownsville, they emphatically demurred. The information against McGrath was that he held up Conductor Boisselle of the street railway company, one night in November, when the latter was flagging his ear across the Northern Pacific crossing at Thirtyninth avenue west, and at the point of a revolver compelled him to give up about $11, the money belonging to the

The trial of Thomas Keatley and Charles Linnell on the charge of stealing flour from a car belonging to the Omaha railway company, was finished this afternoon, the defense making the argument to

During the morning session of court, the Omaha company's watchman, Chief Troyer and Detectives Donald Irvine and Frank Schulte and a Mrs, Craig, were wilnesses called for the state. The police officials testified practically as County Attorney McClintock outlined yesterday afternoon, with the exception yesterday afternoon, with the exception that the city detectives said that as soon as they heard of the thieving, they rowed over to the ferry boat landing on Park Point, which they had just reached as the ferry boat tied up, and the defendants got off. Kane formerly worked for Le Villa and was discharged on the morning proceeding the burglary and assault He tried to prove an alibi, producing witnesses that testified to his being in a sporting house at the time the burglary is alleged to have taken place. The trial of Thomas Keatley and Charles Linnell, who are charged with grand larceny in the second degree, was begun in Judge Ensign's room noon. The information against the two young men is that they stole ten sacks of Hour from a car belonging to the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis & Railway company that was standing sealed on the company's dock at the foot of Eighth avenue west, on the evening of Nov. 18, 1902. The flour is valued at about $11. It is alleged that on the night in question the company's watchmen, while making the rounds about II o'clock, heard some voices near one of the cars, and started to walk around the cars to find out what the men were doing. He made a slight noise and the voices stopped. He could hear one of the men running away. The watchman investigated further, and on looking over the side of the dock he discovered a skiff containing a man and ten sacks of flour. He hauled the man up on the dock, where he could get a good look at his face, and was questioning him when his prisoner suddenly broke away from him and ran. The watchman fired a couple of shots, but the man did not stop. He finally escaped in the darkness. TROUBLES OF SULTAN Missionary Welliver Writes of Reform Ruler of Morocco.

Tells of the Conditions Before the Rebellion Started.

France Is Charged With Having Incited the Uprising.

Sioux City, Iowa, Jan. 16.-A letter received from Rev. James P. Welliver, of Iowa, one of the missionaries imprisoned in Fez, Morocco, during the rebellion there, charges France with inciting the rebellion which led to the present war, and declares that England has promised to maintain the cutity of the Moroccan empire for the present sultan in return for concessions made by him. By international treaty Moroeco had agreed to allow missionaries to live in any part of the cities of the kingdom. Rev. Mr. Weiliver, with other missionaries, was stationed in the native quarters at Tangiers three years ago, when the governor ordered all the missionaries removed to the foreign quarters. Few but Jews lived in this part of the city, and practically all the ated. The Moors were equally anxious to keep from them the opportunity of working with the natives. Rev. Wel-were hustled back to the Jews. Finally the governor ordered them all arrested and placed in a tent in the public square, guarded by soldiers, there until they consented to remain in the foreign quarter. Rev. Mr. Welliver was confident of his rights and appealed to the American consul at Morocco. The matter was taken up by the state department at Washington, the government at Morocco was notibe protected, and Rev. Mr. Welliver led his little band back to the native part of the city. The following letter has been received by Mr. and Mrs. W. Welliver, of Cherokee, his parents: "Fez. Dec. 3, 1901.—Our station at Mequinez, the center of the disturbances, is vacated, the brethren being in Fez for the present, and our friends,

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, who were approaching Mequinez on their return from an itinerating tour, have returned to Larache, after being in the midst of disturbances about a day's journey from Mequinez, in which the governor of the district was killed. "The sultan of Morocco, Moolai Abd Ai Aziz, began his reign eight years ago, at the age of 16, his grand vizer, Abu Hamid, a tonce assuming full control. He was an unusually stern and unrelenting character, with little love for anything foreign. "Upon the death of Abu Hamid, two and a half years ago, the country knew him so well and the sultan so little that conservative people feared the tribes might rebel when his strong hand relaxed. But the sultan proved no figurehead, and assumed the reigns of government at this juncture just as ompletely as he had turned them over to the vizer at his accession. "Two important facts now affect the whole story. One, that the sultan had Contagious disease threatened to attain epidemic proportions several times. Under the direcand county spent $6869 in suppressing smaltpox and other disease. During the wear the local department had an entirely new brand of contagion to battle with. Gianders among horses gave the department about as much work and anxiety as ordinary diseases. During the year the department condemned sixty-four horses suffering with this disease, and the animais were promptly shot. The starch for smallpox took the inspectors on investigating trips to 24; hotels and lodging houses. They also disinfected and fumigated 419 rooms in 83 quarantined houses, on this account. In two inspections every iikman in the city improved his ratngs by whitewashing barns, keeping ables cleaner and handling milk in a more cleanly manner. There are still 22 dairymen in the city that are leeding brewery mash to their stock, however. The milk inspecting has to be done the regular meat and food inspector, though in most cities of the 60,000 class the milk supply is considered sufficiently important to warrant the service of one expert inspector that does nothing else but test milk and cattle. The meat inspector visited butcher shops 1876 times and wholesaic commission houses 976 times during the year. "To Hell In a Pullman" Said to Be Remarkable Lecture.

"To Hell in a Pullman" is the title of a lecture which Rev. Norman Howard Bartlett will deliver at the high school this evening under the auspices of the Duluth lodge of Elks. According to the press notices from citles in which the lecture has been given it is entirely out of the ordinary. It deals with the conventional shams of society, knocks down false ideals, and inspires loftier hopes and ambitions. It is of interest to people in all walks of life and leaves food for thought long after the speaker may be forgotten. That the lecture will prove a rare intellectual treat may be inferred from the following notice from Eastern

Boston Globe: "To Hell in a Pullman" is a powerful lecture, full of human interest, bristling with sarcasm, and alive with originality. Mr. Bartlett is an individualist, possesses a strong personality and has a voice susceptible of almost endless expression.

New York World: Carnegle Lyceum was packed to the doors last night to hear Norman Howard Bartlett. For an hour and a quarter the audience listened with intense interest to one of the keenest and eleverest speakers on the platform."

Rev. Silas M. Rogers, of Ellenburg, Y., said of the lecture: "Norman turers of today of whom it may be talk another hour,' yet that is the general expression of all who have heard his truly remarkable lecture, 'To Hell The blll drafted by City Attorney Mitchell does not contemplate the

> SALTING A GOLD MINE Turned a Worthless Charm

> > Into a Bonanza.

"Lots of people think," said the grizzled Forty-niner, to the New York Tribune, "that nowadays 'salting' a gold mine is one of the lost arts. Those people were never more mistaken in be, and every week in the far West some shrewd dealer, by the liberal use of 'salt,' unloads an empty proposi-"Easy to detect, you should think? of this gross earnings tax as would not a bit of it. An old man at the reimburse the city for money expended game, will salt a mine right under 'Teli you how it is done, you say? Well, you must think I am pretty erooked myself to know the ways of the devious ones; but experience is a thorough teacher, you know. "Well, there are all sorts and kinds of 'salting.' One of the neatest tricks is in the manner of 'salting' a mine where the test is by pan. Suppose, for gold claim. He declares that his paydirt pans out $50 to the pan or thereabouts, and offers to take you right out to the claim and prove his statement. You take him up and out you go together. Your man is openness itself. He tells you to shovel up a pan of dirt from any place on the claim that you like, and he will wash it out for you. What could be fairer than that? No possible chance for a fake, you think. Of course not! "All right. You shovel up your panful at random and hand it over to your man to be washed. You watch him with an eagle eye. No chance while you are by for him to slip a little dust from his hand into the pan! You are too keen for that, of course. In fact, as the moments speed by, and the dirt and water swiri away over the edge, you hegin to think what a nice old boy he is, anyway-nothing to conceal, everything open and above board. His smile is truly benevolent as he puffs away on his old pipe, or rather bites the stem in the corner of his mouth, for he is so in earnest about the work that he has fairly let the pipe go out, and it is almost upside down. 'Look out!' you say, 'your ashes are falling out. 'Oh, well, the tobacco is out, anyway,' he says, and goes on steadily on with the work, you meanwhile watching eagerly and covetously for the shining particles and dust to gleam from the black sand at the bottom. Ah, there they are at last! "You draw a deep beath of relief and delight, while the benevolent old man looks up with a kindly smile and says, shaking his head: Wal, I declare, that shows up a heap sight better even than I figured on. I'm sort of sorry I named that price to you on this 'ere Looks like as if you had a

"'But you gave me your word,' you blurt out impetuously, 'and you can't 'No, young feller, that's right. I'll stick to what I said. But gosh! 'Sixty-two dollars,' he announces.

"Whew! You almost drop in a dead faint with delight. You'll have a fortune in a week at that rate. This is indeed the country of gold! "You rush after the old man and put the transfer papers through in a jiffy, paying out every dollar that you you possess in the world for the claim. You are full of gratitude to the old man, who stuck by his word of honor, regardless of loss. You did not know that in mining camps moral standards were so high. "But the next morning comes a change. After a couple of hours of back-breaking pannning out you have practically nothing for your pains-a few dollars, perhaps-hardly more than 0 cents a pan. A horrible suspicion enters your mind that there is something wrong. "Why continue the suspense? The mining expert, whom you summon in and whose reputation is known for miles around, looks over the ground, and then asks you a few questions about the former owner who sold you the claim. 'Positively no chance for salting the testpan, you assert. "The expert nods assent, 'Was he smoking?' he asks.

"'Let me think.' You meditate-'Ah, yes, smoking an old clay pipe.'
"'Bowl upside down?' asks the expert, pleasantly.
"'Why, yes, I guess it was: in fact—" "'I know," interrupts the expert.

He knew you'd pounce on one, and I'll bet he could hardly keep from yelling when he saw you walk right into the trap." The Forty-niner shook his head sadly. SENATOR GEORGE F. HOAR AND HIS DRASTIC BILL TO REGULATE THE TRUSTS.

Senator Hoar says of his bill for the regulation of trusts and corporations engaged in international and interstate commerce: "The bill is, I believe, conservative and moderate. It will work no serious injury to any lawful and honorable business. In my opinion there is nothing in the bill which is not in strict accordance with the constitution. The one thing in the bill which is of vital consequence is the provision contained in section 11, 'That every president, treasurer, general manager, agent or other person usually exercising the powers of such officers of any corporation, joint stock company or other association, who has himself, in its behalf, violated, united to violate or voted for or consented to the violation of any of the provisions of this act, shall thereafter be personally liable for all the debts and obligations of any such corporation."

a few solaces left on earth. Americans reverence their dead too much to make a funeral a scene of festivity; but they are mitigating the gloom of these occasions to a degree. Flowers and music take the edge from grief, and it is no longer necessary to darken the windows. White is more and more used in place of black, for dress and decoration, and in placing the body in the casket—or, better, on a couch—there is avoidance of the stiffness of attitude that suggests a pose before the old-fashioned photographer.

Reform in these matters comes, in part. through the holding of funerals in other places than the home. Some undertakers have mortuary chapels as parts of their establishments. Cemeteries have buildings for a similar purpose. Mount Auburn in particular has a beautiful little chapel near the gate, which replaces the gothic structure in the middle of the grounds, now become a crematory. In this chapel, with its organ, carved oak roof, stained windows and electrolliers in the form of funeral torches, the bier is so easily movable that it can be turned by a single hand; hence much of the struggle to place and carry away the casket is fore-gone.

resolutions were passed asking congress to revise the grazing laws. From the statements made the present statutes have become obsolete and there is great need of bringing them up to date, so as to fit present conditions. The interior department is well aware that existing conditions are not satisfactory and has for some time been at work on measures intended to remedy some of the most glaring defects. A bill to be presented to congress is now being drafted, but unfortunately only applies to Nebraska. It is a brief one and provides for the leasing of lands in Nebraska on terms and under preparations to be prepared by the secretary of the interior. In a general way the measure will provide that tracts of land, not exceeding 20.000 aeres, may be leased and fenced by cattlemen, with provisions allowing bona fide homesteaders certain special privileges. The cattiemen have agreed to accept the conditions of the proposed bill, and it will be introduced next week, and an effort made to press it to consideration in both branches of eongress. The enactment of the bill into law will settle the ment will then direct its attention to the enforcement of the fencing laws in other grazing states. Mr. Laey, of Iowa, chairman of the house committee on public lands, has gone over the terms of the proposed bill in detail and will recommend its favorable report by the committee and its adoption by the house. The sensurances that the measure as approved by the secretary of the interior will be favorably coasidered, probably without it should not prevail. A national law that is good for Nebraska is good for other states and should be made to apply to all. The time is fast approaching when special legislation will be relegated to the past.

CANADIAN RECIPROCITY. The emphatic manner in which the policy of reciprocity has been endorsed by the Kational Board of Trade must give more strength to the movement in favor of extending the trade relations of the United States with foreign countries. The sentiment in favor of reciprocity is making steady progress, and unless all signs fail, it will soon become so strong that no political party will feel it wise to withstand the popular demand for lowering the tariff barriers in favor of nations that are ready to reciprocate. In the Northwest the movement to secure freer trade relations with Canada has reached the Minimum temperatures recorded in the stage of an organization that promises to have a strong influence in securing the necessary action by congress and the state department. There are many people, of course, who have not given much attention to the subject, and a campaign of education is therefore in order. There can be no doubt that such a campaign would result in greatly increasing the sentiment in favor of reciprocity, because there is not a sound argument that can be advanced against it. The National Board of Trade declared unreservedly for reciprocity with Canada in these

PHILIPPINE FINANCES.

Although the special report from the Taft commission of the Philippines shows a slight surplus after balancing the receipts and expenditures, it is predicted that there will be a deficit at the end of the current year. This is expected from the depreciation in the held by the insular government. It is believed that the insular revenues for the fiscal year 1903 would be adequate to meet all disbursements for the purposes of administration and for the expenditure of considerable sums for improvements and extraordinary expenses were it not for the great depreciation that has existed in the value of the silver coin held by the treasury as above stated. This depreciation will cause a deficit which must be met from the surplus heretofore accumulated in the treasury. The probable amount of the deficit will be apparent from the budget, as hereinafter stated. The available assets will be to some extent increased by the action of congress in dedicating to insular purposes the Spanish selzed funds and seized insurgent funds that | tion day. have been kept as special funds in the treasury heretofore.

The available assets, however, will extent by the provisions that customs duties collected in the United States on imports from the Philippine islands shall be returned to the insular treasury. (Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Publishing Company.) A sheen of yellow sunlight lay over the orange groves where spheres of golden fruit hung like small counterfeits of the great orb of the sky. The spine of the biue Sierra Madras quivered in the heat, the intense azure of the cloudless heavens seemed to east a reflection on the earth, and a sweet repose hushed the ripe valley into peaceful stillness. On a bit of swelling ground, screened behind a thick growth of trees and vines, stood a quaint old adobe convent, with its accompanying chapel, whence sounded the clear notes o a beil. In obedience to its summons black-robed nuns filed slowly open court in the center of the building, where the mother superior, a young nun and a venerable, white-haired priest were aiready waiting. They took their places silently, and when all were assembled, in tones cracked with age, the hely man ucusly. From the convent windows Father Navier and the gentle sisters watched the dark, solitary figure moving off across the gorgeous wild poppy fields beneath the throbbing blue sky with the ruddy sunshine elinging to her like a benedition. They prayed silently as they looked at her until the blue sky, the yellow fields and the sun-drenched air mingled into dim blur, and the lonely figure was blotted out by their tears and lost to their sight forever. Time went on and the poppies bloomed again in the fields around the old adobe convent as they had bloomed when the banished sister started on her journey back into the world. She had never been mentioned among them since that day, edged in the hearts of the priests and the sisters. One day at this season the ring-ing of the bell called the sisters into the court where Maria had been judged. The mother superior stood before them with a letter in her hand, and by her side was "My children," she said, "I have something to read to you. Then we may rejoice and sorrow together. Plants Forced to Bear Flowers Ahead of Time.

New York, Jan. 16 .- An account of the therization of plants, a new process by which plants naturally flowering in the spring are made to produce blossoms during the previous autumn, is cabled by the London correspondent of the Times.

The process is simple. The plants are stored in a small galvanized tank then stored in a small galvanized tank then ether is poured into a small cup fixed to the top of the tank whence, after the tank has been securely fastened, the ether is allowed to evaporate for a period of forty-eight hours. During this time the plants shed their leaves, and may be described as being in a state of intoxication.

After this period, the plants are exposed After this period, the plants are exposed to the air for another period of forty-eight hours. This is in turn followed by a second period of etherization, after which the plants are removed to an ordinary forcing house, and within two or three weeks begin to flower freely.

We will begin one of the greatest sacrifice sales in the ready-to-wear line and other departments ever attempted by us. The reasons for this are numerous. Firstly—we want to dispose of all our winter goods, which we do not desire to carry over to next season, for reasons known to everyone. Secondly-we begin our annual inventory very soon, and we must convert everything possible into cash. Thirdly—our business for the past year has shown such a big increase that we want to celebrate the occasion by a Gala Bargain Giving Fete in the shape of distributing bargains among our many customers, the like of which you very seldom hear of. TRADE OF THE LAKES

The Treasury Bureau's Statistics Covering the Entire Season.

Duluth Leads All Ports In the Registered Tonnage.

Comparisons With Marine Operations on the Ocean Frontage.

> From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Jan. 16 .- (Special to The Herald.)-The close of November on the great lakes usually marks the end of the season of through navigation. This year, for the first time, the treasury bureau of statistics has covered an entire season's registered tonnage movement, giving arrivals and clearances at ports on these interlor waters. For November, 214 ports report arrivals and clearances, and the registered tomage movement in net tons is available for the first eleven months of the year. December's tonnage adds slightly to these figures, but will not materially change the grand total. For the first eleven months of the past year, 77,408 vessels were reported as arrivals, with a net registered tonnage of 71,443,517 net tons, and 77,899 clearances of 72,215,099 net tons. These figures apply exclusively to coastwise trade; that is, We offer One Hundred Dollars Reward to trade between domestic ports only, and do not include tonnage employed in the lake trade between Canada and the United States.

There are twenty individual ports on the great lakes having each a registered tonnage of arrivals ranging from 1,000,000 to over 5,000,000 tons. On Lake Superior four different ports had a combined tonnage of 14,353,972 net tons, of which Duluth is credited with 4,-971,434 tons; Superior, 4,087,139 tons; Two Harbors, 3,123,853 tons, and Ashland, 2,171,546 tons. Lake Michigan has seven ports which fall within this class, aggregating 18,773,132 tons of arrivals. Of these, Milwaukee stands at the head with 4,662,593 tons. Next in order comes Chicago with 4,370,638 tons, followed by Escanaba with 2,-914,256 tons, whose freight eargoes consist very largely of ore shipments to the manufacturing districts of the lower lakes. South Chicago has a tonnage of 2,293,479 tons, and if included in that of Chicago, the com-bined tonnage would exceed the registered tonnage of ay other lake port by more than 1,500,000 tons. Next in order, on Lake Michigan, come Luddington, with 1,811,875 tons; Mantiowoc, 1,751,609 tons and Frankfort, with 1,008,685 tons

The enormous volume of this move-ment is only appreciated when compared with similar marine operations on the ocean frontage. New York, during the entire calendar year 1902, is credited with 8,982,467 registered tons of arrivals, and 8,815,291 tons of clearances. London, for 1901, had entrances amounting to 9,992,753 tons and clearances of 7,282,892 tons. Hong Kong reported 8,626,614 tons entering and 8,620,409 tons clearing in the year

The largest group of lake ports within the 1,000,000-ton class is to be found on the lower lakes between Detroit and Buffalo. Nine ports on this portion of the lake coast aggregating a registry

PAUL AT THESSALONICA. In Paul's evangelistic efforts there was usually not much room left for doubt as to when his work was done for the time being at any one place. The opposition and persecution of the Jews or Gentiles drove him from city to city. Paul left the comfortable home of Lydia in Philippi, followed the road that led toward the southwest, and at the end of a 32-mile journey found his night's lodging on the banks of the river Strymon, in the city of Amphi-polis, whose name is derived from the fact that the city is girt on three sides by the river. The next day's journey brought the apostle and his ompanions to Appolonia, thirty miles southwestward, and at the end of the third days' journey of thirty seven sioners would be required if the 542 miles to the westward they halted in the city of Thessalonica, which was were to be investigated within a rea- situated at the North East corner of the Thermaic guly. Originally an insignificant village, it was rebuilt by one of Alexander's generals, Cassandra, and named after his wife. When Paul visited it it was the most important city of Macedonia. It had a Jewish synagogue which afforded a center for Paul's work. He probably passed through Amphipolis and Appolonia without preaching there, because those cities had no synagogue. Thessaonica was a fine center from which to evangelize the region round about. Paul wrote to the church he founded the same percentage of the recovery there. "From you hath sounded forth would be again expended in agriculthe word of the Lord, not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but in every place your faith to Godward is gone

It is a fine thing to say of one that his custom is to go to the house of God. Paul had entered into the richest truths of the Christian faith, but this fact did not make him any the less dependent on the ministrations of the Jewish sanctuary. He was a thoroughly religious man, and it is a mark of genuine religion that its devotees find pleasure and profit in the social worship of believers. The fact that Paul entered so heartily into the worship of his Jewish compatriots opened the way for him to speak the message of Christ's gospel freely to all who assembled there. For three weeks Paul used this privilege in Thessalonica. His success indicates that he must have three years he was, in 1887, elected to weeks, but some of his work may well gogue, for the Gentile element in the Thessalonian church was very strong, as appears from I Thessalonians 1:9. "turned unto God from idols to serve a living and true God." The main contenton of Paul in the synagogue was that, according to the Jewish Scriptures, the Christ of Jewish expectation was predestined to suffer and to rise from the dead. Jesus had fulfilled both these demands and was therefore the Christ. He also dwelt and holiness, saying, "God called us not for uncleanness, but in sanctification." Again, he wrote them that all his work in the gospel had been "to the end that ye should walk worthily of God, who calleth you unto the teaching of the return of the Messiah. He wrote to the Thessalonians, saying. "Remember ye not, that, wnen I was with you, I told you these things?" and he was then writing of the second coming of Christ. In another place he wrote them of how there had "Turned unto God . . . to wait for His Son from heaven, whom Ho raised from the dead, even Jesus, which leiivereth us from the wrath to coine." It would be interesting if we knew James J. Jeffries, concerning his recent bout with Jack Monroe at Butte, Mont. Jeffries declares that Monroe not only the great lakes at their second annual whether the charge of disloyalty to convention here last night decided that Caesar, which the Jews lodged against Paul. was based upon his preaching that Jesus was coming again to have that Jesus was coming again to have punch. COAL COMBINE To Keep Up Prices Unearthed at Omaha.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 16 .- A peculiar condition was unearthed when a newspaper made public the working of an alleged coal combination. For some time the price of bltuminous coal has been advancing and the supply was thought to have been materially decreased. It develops, however, that there is plenty of soft coal in the city and sufficient anthracite coal number of cars arriving daily. What is known as a "coal exchange" is operated, it is alleged by the principal dealers through which all retailers agree on sell-One dealer, who is said to be the only dealer out of the "exchange," said he had a month's supply with more coming daily, and that he was quite sure most of the dealers had a reasonable supply for the present needs. The commercial bodies of the city are taking steps to investigate the coal conditions.

Sugar Made Gains and the Market Hardened Generally.

Trading Was Light and Close Was Dull and Steady.

New York, Jan. 16.-Opening dealings in stocks were so small and changes so slight as to be of little significance. There was some slight demand for Missouri Pacific. The advance in St. Faul and the Chlcago-Great Western stocks was attributed to unconfirmed run o:s that the latter road had been absorbed by the former. Sugar extended its gain nearly 2 points and the market hardened generally on light trans-actions. Great Northern pfd gained 21/8 and Baltimore & Ohlo, 3. The close was

COPPER GOSSIP.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The "no information" polley of the Standard Oil people is illustrated in the region of the Amalgamated Copper from the copper producers' association. Mr. Stanton will hereafter be unable to include monthly figures of domestic production outputs of the Amalgamated companies as they do the Amalgamated companies as they do the Amalgamated companies as they do to cocasional large ones. —The Advisor.

Never expect much from small advertising and interpreter, I was ordered to join the party. We chose the afternoon to make Duluth Evening Herald, Jan. 16-22-30-1903.

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The local market early was again featureless. Continental was in fairly good demand and strong on buying by a prominent congress street investment house and by $2-brokers. The latter were the buyers between 24 and 24½. St. Mary's Mineral Land was quoted at 49@50%, with no sales. A sale of 40 shares was made yesterday at 49, on advances of 3 points from previous quotations. The advance in Calumet & Hecla to 544 represents a rise or 124 points from December low point or expressed in marked value figures $12,400,009. There is a feeling of uncertainty as to the semi-annual dividend on Quincy Mining stock shortly to be declared. The net profits for the year are believed to have been under $600,600 and assessment $3 per share has already been declared from 1902 earnings it is thought in some quarters that the next dividend will not be more than 2.

Boston to Palne, Webber & Co.: The coppers showed a good increase in activity today and prices had a rally all along the line. Metal prices were firmer again in both the home and foreign market. Local speculative sentiment was very bullished to be slightly on coppers and inclined to be slightly bearish on the New York list. If the metal continues to work higher the coppers are bound to go higher.

THE COTTON MARKET.

New York, Jan. 16.—The cotton market opened firm at an advance of 2 to 4 points, cable advices from Liverpool being better than looked for by about 1 point, based on the closing of the New York market undertone the previous day. The advance was increased to 8 to 10 points. Trading was very active and the undertone very strong. Factors promoting the upward movement were light receipts with weather in the cotton belt more or less generally against the movement and the handally against the movement and the hand-ling of cotton. Forecasts as to port re-ceipts for the near future were small and this phase offset the weaker ruling of cables. The market late in the forenoon showed a firm undertone at a reaction of 4 to 5 points from the highest prices under Inquidation.
Cotton spot closed steady, 5 points higher; mid ups, 8.93; do gulf, 9.20. Sales, 2012 bales. Cotton futures closed steady; January, 8.69; February, 8.70; March, 8.76; April, 8.77; May, 8.81; July, 8.81; August, 8.61; September, 8.25.

WAS A SMART PARROT. Knew Sunday and Could Talk Many Languages.

Polly was a beautiful, emerald-green parrot, belonging to Hamilton W. Swift, of Syracuse, whose pet he had been for many years, says a correspondent of the New York world. He was a member of that species of parrot known to ornithologists as the yellow-headed green Brazilian which, although of somewhat smaller size than the ordinary parrot is invariably hardier, long-lived, more intelligent by the car to payment by weight would entail not only great expense, but serious delays in operating our mines, and we shall show that it would make no practical difference with the net wages received by the miners. In short, that it would be useless, ineffectual, unfair and unusual."

William Allen, inside division superintendent of the Elk Hill Coal company was called. He told of the conditions about that company's collieries and said adjusthardier, long-lived, more intelligent hardler, long-lived, more intelligent and more talkative.

He was taken from his nest before he could fly, in southeastern Brazil, in the spring of 1860. He was sold by the large talkative and said adjustments had always been made in miners' wages where special work on account of varying physical condition is due. Witness said the size of mine cars had not been increased. Such great intelligence was displayed by Polly, and so rapidly did he learn to talk, that the sailor became attached to him and the sailor became attached to him and kept him as pet aboard ship until 1868, when adverse circumstances compelled him to part with his pet, and he sold him to a New York dealer, who sold him to the late Dr. John L. At the time of his death, last year, he was 42 years of age, an unusual term of years for a bird in this climate. To be at the back of his owner's chair and sit there by the hour, preening his feathers in contented silence was another of his characteristics,, and he always seemed to know when to keep silent on these occasions. A singular example of this bird's intelligence was shown during the latter years of his life, when his owner had engaged in the newspaper business and took Sunday as his "day off." As soon as Polly determined that this day was a day "at home" he decided that every hour should belong to him, and by whatever means he knew when Sunday came, he would begin early in the morning conversing with himself about his food and the whereabouts of "Hamilton," as he called Mr. Swift. If he received no notice he would become vociferous m his demands, to which he added whistling and the favorite catchy Polly feared nothing, and never hesi-

During the almost total solar growing darkness marked great uneasiness on his part; as the darkness grew he became so distressed as to become an object of solicitude to the family. Finally the shades were drawn down and the electric light turned on, when he became somewhat quieter, although restless. As regards Polly's ability as a talker peated words, phrases and sentences correctly, but he knew their meaning. If he asked for potato, of which he was fond, and a chop-bone was given him he would throw it down with emphasis and continue his demand for the potato until he got it. He was said to be a fluent speaker in Spanish at the time of his purchase, but as there was no occasion for his using it he never demonstrated his ability in that respect. He had a most fluent command of English, and could speak French to a limited extent, and had committed to memory in former years

A remarkable thing about him was his vocalism, and strange as it may seem, he could render the opening theme of Isolde's Libestod from "Tristan und Isolde." Shortly after we made camp, while a part of the men were cooking supper and the remainder were picketing the horses, a couple of men—Privates Ryelson and Manley, I think those were their names—took their carbines and started for a clump of cottonwoods on the opposite side of the valley, where one of the men had seen a couple of 'fantali' deer, as we had gone into camp. The place was about a mile and a haif from where we made our camp.

"The rest of the soldiers paid little attention to the men and laughed at their afforts as hunters, for neither one of the men had ever been known to bring any meat into camp when they were hunting. Well, the rest of us were seated around the campfire eating supper. The sun was just setting and the afternoon had been cloudy. Just as the sun reached the edge of the mountains in the west a rew rays fell on the clump of cottonwoods into which the men had disappeared a few minutes before, and brought it out in strong relief against the dark background of the mines.

"As we gazed half curiously at the effect of the sunset a shot rang out from the timber, followed by another and another. Then, after several minutes sience the most agonizing yell imaginable arose from the timber. In an instant the cries the most agonizing yell imaginable arose from the timber. When we reached the cottonwoods "When we reached the cottonwoods there was not a sign of the men to be found, nor was there any trace of their arms or tracks leading rrom the thicket. "With daylight the serach was renewed, and finally we found a place where it looked as a something had been dragged over the ground, but the ground was very hard and dry, and it was almost impossible to make any headway following the trail. Finally it seemed to me as if the trail led to another cottonwood thicket, a mile or so down the valley, and thither a mile or so down the valley, and thither we followed.
"There the commander suggested that we separate, 'deply' he called it, to a distance of about 20 feet apart and scour

"A year or so ago Madison John and I were in that neighborhood hunting and we passed through the same thicket in which the men had disappeared. I told John of the disappearance of the men and our hunt for them. He asked me if he had "looked up the trees." I told him no, and we scoured the thicket again in the hopes of finding some clew to the men. We found it. In a cottonwood tree, which was then about six inches through which was then about six inches through, we discovered the remains of the womissing men, or rather their skeletons. The tree had evidently been bent over by the two men for the purpose of hanging the carcass of a deer into a convenient fork. One of the men had apparently tried to hold the tree down while the other raised up the carcass of the deer to place it over the fork, which had been sharpened. While he was doing this his hand slipped and the tree stranghtened up again. The neck of one of the men was caught in the fork of the tree as it straightened and the sharpened prong of the tree thrust itself through the lower jaw of the other as it straightened litself to its normal position. The case came up before Judge Cant, and when it went against the city in the district court, City Attorney Mitcheil carried it up to the supreme court on an appeal. The decision sustaining the city's side of the case is as follows: Where money has been expended by a party to avail himself of a permit to move a building within the fire limits of a city, which permit is attempted to be unlawfully revoked by the city council, and proceedings are threatened to interiere with the vested rights of the party to whom it was granted, the only adequate and appropriate relief against the city is by injunction to restrain the enforcement of the revocation." SAFE BREAKERS POSTED.

In the struggle for supremacy which goes hand in hand with the march of progress, the condition has been vividly defined in the battle between the safe-makers and the safe-breakrs, says the New York Tims. And the rivalry is close that it is impossible to award the victory to either. The safemaker who would throw an impossible barrier about the valuables of his patrons is ingenius, inventive and progressive.

But brains are not monopolized, and the skilled safe-breaker, who works in the opposite direction, is equally ingenius in se-curing means to accomplish his end. Detectives the world over are a unit in declaring that there are no more daring skillful men in the criminal ranks than the breakers of safes.

Not many years ago a safe was robbed under conditions which made the feat seem as impossible as that of looting the national treasury.

The safe, which belonged to a firm of contractors, was so placed that it was in contractors, was so placed that it was in full view of a policeman who passed the premises at frequent intervals. One night every week the safe contained nearly $50,000, the wages of workmen to be paid the following day. During one of these nights the policeman had kept vigilant watch, peering at the safe about every fifteen minutes. Yet in the morning it was found that the safe had completely vanished. and another citizen, a spruce, jolly appearing individual, said to him:

"That's Sam Fleming. And a real decent, good-aetin' citizen he would be, too, if it wasn't for that one bad failin' o' hils'n. He hunts coons."

It wasn't for that one bad failin' o' hils'n. He hunts coons."

The hunts coons. He hunts coons. He couldn't say a specific to the Cornwall townspeople that he could have saved up the money to buy he could not be to he could not be to he could not be to he could not he could not they quickly removed the real safe and substituted the counterfeit.

The safe was then rolled to a rear room and rified at leisure, while the policeman inspected the dummy at intervals and felt centent. felt content. An example of the patience of the safebreaker was proved by the robbery of a safe of a Chicago firm of jewelers some time ago. For additional security the safe had been placed in a room sheathed

The burglars secured quarters in the The burglars secured quarters in the second story of an adjacent building. On Sunday, when the place was deserted, they cut through the floor and lowered themselves to a tailor shop adjacent to the safe room, and after several hours work they found themselves in the presence of the coveted safe. This they opened by means of wedges and levers. Jewels valued at $30,000 was secured, and the thieves made good their escape.

PROTEST

Against Amendments to the City Charter By Legislature.

While our citizens are preoccupied in attending to their private business, city officials are industiously preparing the machnery for extravagance in expenditures of public moneys. For a great many years prior to 1990, our municipal affairs were conducted under a charter, which vested in the city administration very full powers in the matter of expending public money, levying taxes, making improvements and assessing the cost thereof to abutting property, without petition and frequently against the protest of those who were compelled to pay such Hundreds of thousands of dollars were expended in unnecessary and improper improvements. Oftentimes the assessments against property equaled or exceeded the actual value of such property. Hundreds of our citizens lost their homes property as a result of the power which the council possessed and exercised under the old charter. The citizens finally rebelled against such a condition of things, and in 1900, a new city charter, placing certain limitations and restrictions upon the powers of the council and city make improvements and assess the cost thereof to abutting property, unless a small percentage of the owners first pesible it is to keep the walks even reasontitioned for such improvements, was ably clean when we have one or two adouted. Almost without exception since snowstorms a week and the wind blowing writer has been correctly informed, the city administration has levied and expended in each department, the limit authorized by the charter. And when the administration has been unable to make improvements, which the people required to pay the cost did not want made. clamor has been set up to have the city ficials more liberal discretion and powers in the matter of taxation. The last three or four city elections demonstrate that the people are very re-luctant to grant these additional powers, so the city officials are going directly to state legislature to secure them. A has already been sent down to the state legislature, as appears by the newspaper reports, the object of which is to extend the scope of the authority of the city council to establish snow limit ordinances, and empower the city to do the work and assess the property benefited (probably intending the abutting proper-ty, although such benefits must be largely imaginary.) Is this the entering wedge for securing the passage of other bills by the state legislature to nullify the salutary provisions of the city charter? Do the citizens of Duluth realize what it means to them to be able to vote for the adoption or rejection of the rules or laws by which their municipal affairs shall be governed? If they do, each citizen will write to his representative in the legisla-

ender, curtail or interfere with "Home | building.

A word as to clearing the snow from sidewalks which is made the occasion of appeal to the state legislature. It is of course desirable to have the snow cleaned off sidewalks as far as practicable. It should be remembered, however, that we live in a cold climate, and it is not practicable to get all of the snow off the walks, r in the resident portion of the city, to do more than open up a passageway for travel. It is almost impossible to remove all or substantially all of the snow off the walks, even in the portions of the city which are more densely populated. A portion of the coordinate o tion of the snow is certain to adhere to stick and become hard and icy, ever where reasonable efforts are made to clean off the snow, and in this climate, these portions will adhere to walks for weeks at a time, unless they are melted off by salt, lime or other chemicals or by warm weather, or on the business street by warm basements whose area walls exend under the sidewalks. This is apparent to every observing traveler upon Su perior street by the efforts made by large number of merchants and busine men to clear off the walks in front of slipping, and damage suits, etc.

their places of business, by scraping and chopping the ice therefrom. We hear from city officials about injuries to people from not the fact that these injuries occur up-on the walks where a vigorous attempt has been made to clean off the snow, more frequently than upon walks from which no snow has been cleaned? I do not mean to advocate that the snow should not be cleaned off, for I believe a reasonable ef-fort should be made to clear passage ways pon the walks along public parks, cross ingo the walks along public parks, crossings 'and private property, so that the public can conveniently travel thereon; but I do mean to call attention to the utter folly, and absurdity of all this talk about ''damage'suits,'' and ''injuries happening to people'' because the council and board of public works have not the power to clean off the walks and assess the abute. to clean off the walks and assess the abutting property therefor.

and drifting the snow every two or three

I fear that if the city administration had for clearing off the snow from sidewalks the property owners would get an additional assessment each year without the traveling public being convenienced materially by reason of the snow being cleaned off the walks. A practical method which would very much improve the conditions of the walks. would be for the city to have half a dozen snow plows or scrapers-simple triingular implements such as the city formerly used-and have the city's mainten-ance and repair force, which is usually upon the payrolls, hitch a horse to each one of these plows, immediately after each snow storm, and clear passageways three or four feet wide upon all of the principal walks and avenues leading to the business portions of Superior and Michigan streets and the schools and public buildings. This would only take a few hours each storm and would be a matter of small expense, which could easily be paid out of the general or maintenance funds. Very truly, T. T. HUDSON. Duluth, Jan. 17. Coal. Coal. Coal.

Kentucky Man Has Scheme For Shipping Coal. Louisville, Ky., Jan. 17.-According to the Courier-Journal, the coal shortage in Chicago has opened up the opportunity for a new business venture, and Samuel Born, of Lafayette, has taken advantage of it. He will ship coal to Chicago in box cars from the cities around the falls of the Ohio, and the cars will come back loaded with grain. By making an arrangement with Indiana and Iilinois grain dealers, he has been enabled to assure the railroads that their cars will be loaded both ways. On this assurance, it is said, two railroads have guaranteed to furnish him with the necessary cars.

Duluth Men Strike It Rich President Mitchell Says Three Thousand Miners Are Idle.

> Would Greatly Increase Output of Coal If Employed.

The Delaware & Lackawanna Railroad Begins Its Testimony.

Philadelphia, Jan. 17 .- James Smith, inside foreman for three of the collieries of the Elk Hill Coal & Iron company, wino was on the witness stand before the commission yesterday, testified today that before the union came into the authracite region the limit of cars loaded by the workers was fixed at six. After the union came into the field the limit was reduced to four cars. On cross-examination witness said that the company has no company store.

Edward J. Maginnis, a lawyer of Girardyille, who was one of the three persons who signed the letter sent to Governor Stone protesting against the troops escorting non-union men to and from work during the strike, was next called. Mr. Mr. Mitchell asked to be permitted to make a few remarks before the commission he would probably be the last session he would be able to attend because next week he would be in Indianapolis attending the session of the national convention of Mine Workers. He thanked the commission for its efforts so far and said the conduct of the investigation had been entirely satisfactory to the miners. pany. The letter, he said, was drawn up as a result of a mass meeting called by certain business men. President Fahy, District Board Member Ginley and National Board Member Dougherty of the miners' union, he said, claimed that the governor promised them that the troops would not be permitted to do police duty, and the meeting was called to protest against the troops doing police duty. He further stated that the people of the community were afraid that if the soldiers continued to escort non-union men there would be bloodshed. He admitted that the non-union men needed protection, On cross examination the witness said the mine owners did not get up the meetng, but that a large number were pres-The Elk Hill Coal & Iron company then Lackawanna & Western company followed with a statement by John D. Wilson, their counsel. He said:

Mr. Chairman and gentlemen of the commission: The Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad company, will show that the mine employes of our company prior to the strike of 1900, were contented; that the relations of employer and em-ploye were amicable and friendly to a marked degree; that repeated conferences have taken place between the officials of our company and its employes in which any matters at variance between them have been adjusted without friction; and that the employes have always received wages commensurate with their duties and responsibilities.

We will show that since the strike of 1960 and the advent of unionism, it has been extremely difficult to maintain dismemorial. cipline; that our company has still con-tinued to follow out a course of treat-ment of its employes along humane lines, and has endeavored at all times to pro-mote the interests of all concerned. We believe and think we can show that at least 80 per cent of our employes voted against the inauguration of the recent strike, and that when such strike recent strike, and that when such strike took place, our employes suspended work, not by reason of any grievance or fault with either their hours of labor of the rate of remuneration, but by reason of the fear born within them that if they failed to submit to the dictation of the officials of the union they would be called "scabs" and "traitors," and their wiver and children ostraclsed and their lives made burdensome.

We will show that the average number of hours spent by contract miners in the mines have not been excessive, and in fact that they have been less than the hours for which they ask through Mr. Mitchell. Mr. Mitchell.

The system of payment in vogue by our company is one which has been tried and proven for a great number of years, and has resulted, we believe, and shall show, in the adoption of such methods as secure a just equivalent of wages in return for labor performed. We pay on the car basis. This system is fair and equitable.

equitable.

We feel justified in denying in the strongest terms possible that the mine workers have proven specifically upon the witness stand any of the complaints which they have heretofore alleged existed against our company in common with other anthracite mine operators, and that any disagreement has at any time taken place between this company and its employes such as would warrant my foundation for any part of such com-Col. he felt sure they would not support anybody of men who committed it.

Mr. Mitchell spoke of the efforts of the miners to produce all the coal they can. His reports from the coal regions were to the effect that the men are not being supplied with cars rapidly enough to take up all the coal the miners cut.

Maj. Everett Warren, one of the attorneys for the operators, interrupted Mr. Mitchell to say that he opent to bring proof of his assertions that there is a scarcity of cars. The miners' president closed by stating that 3000 men who were on strike have been refused work and are still idle. They are impatient for work and that if the companies are anxious to relieve the dis-tress produced by the coal famine let the operators take back these men. THE WILSON RESOLUTION. Duluth Board of Trade Wants Johnson, clerk of the district court of this county, will be among the number attending. It is understood that a bill will be drafted at the meeting next week, for presentation to the state legislature, which, if passed, will have the effect of putting the office of clerk of district court on the same basis as that of the court on the same basis as that of the county auditor and county treasurer, relative to appropriation for clerk hire. Chapter 292, of the general laws of the state for 1895, provides that in counties of this state of more than 40,000 inhabitants the board of county commissioners are authorized to appropriate out of the general funds of the county for paying cierk hire in the offices of the county uditor and county treasurer such sum auditor and county treasurer such sum as they shall deem expedient, not to exceed $6000, in the treasurer's office, nor more than $12,000 in the auditor's office.

Under this law the county treasurer and county auditor are permitted to be the judges of the number of clerks each needs, and can fix the compensation of the clerks. the clerks.

The offices of the sheriff, clerk of district court, register of deeds and the judge of probate do not come under this law, a specific provision being made in the state laws that the county board shall fir the number of clerks and the county board shall fix the number of clerks and the compen-sation each shall receive.

Range gambling netted something like $3400 in fines in the district court this afternoon. Seventeen men, indicted by the grand jury last Sacurday, either for gambling or permitting gambling within their premisse, were represented in court by attorneys and entered pleas of guilty to the charges against them. The diamond on which they played was very short and entirely different from the one that they have been playing on.
This made the distance which the pitchers had to throw the sphere very short, and as the Michigan men had very speedy pitchers it was almost impossible to connect with the ball. In addition to the short space the men claim that the Wolverine twirlers illegally took a running start of a couple of steps in delivering the ball, thus increasing the speed. The ball was of a different make than the one which is used in the local league and of different size, making it almost impossible for the local men to play any kind of a game. When the Houghton men come up here next month they will play on the big diamond which the local men are accustomed to and with the tools of the local league. The men have no doubt but that under those circumstances they will be able to win as decisively as they were defeated in Michigan. No better treatment could be given a team than that which the local men re-ceived in Houghton.

With the old way we doctored the organ itself, and the results at best were but temporary. The results of my Restorative are permanent, and they are absolutely certain, save where some cause like cancer makes a cure impossible. With this remedy I have cure cases as difficult as physicians ever meet; and I have rarely found a chronic case that could be really eured without it,

The sick from all parts of the world are sent to him, they are cured in a short time and return home and send their sick friends, and that is why Dr. Mitchell's offices are crowded from morning till night. PERJURY.

Albert Green, In Anxiety to Get Married, Slips Up.

Albert Green, who was indicted by the grand jury for perjury, was yesterday arrested in Carlton and brought back to St. Louis county jail to await his trial. The indictment against Green was one of those withheld from publication until the defendant was in custody. The information against Green is that he married one Jennie Devard, a divorced woman, before six months had elapsed from the date of her divorce, notwithstanding the fact that he had been notified that the law would not permit him to marry under such conditions until a certain time had elapsed. Green, failing to get a lcense in Carlton county, got one in this county.

Jennie Devard was divorced from her nusband, Adam Devard, after they had. lived together on a farm near Carlton for a number of years. She claimed her husband deserted her in 1902. She had, in the meantime, fallen in love with Green, and instituted the divorce proceedings so she could marry him, the decree being granted early in Oc-

Strollers," is the first of the new year's publications by the Brown-Merrill company. The title strikes the keynote of the story, and its implication of secrecy has been carefully maintained by the author in the development of his plot. Howard Chandler Christy has respected the spirit of silence in his illustrations and in drawing the actors and the scenes he gives no hint of the outcome of the story.

The New York Press calls attention to "Hidden Manna," the novel by A. J. Dawson just published by A. S. Barnes & Co., and says: "In view of the troubles in Morocco, A. J. Daw-son's 'Hidden Manna' (A. S. Barnes & Co.) Is a particularly timely novel and will give the general reader an excellent impression of the old life that still obtains almost within sight of European civilization. Mr. Dawson's description of the city of Fez will bring that city very near to one who reads in the news columns of the sultan besieged in its fortress."

"The Lieutenant-Governor," by Guy Wetmere Carryl, the novelette with which the January number of The Smart Set opens, is full of power and fascination. The plot is absolutely new, and the striking dramath situations are handled by the author with a mastery of art that holds the reader absorbed from opening to climax. This is the strongest novelette that has appeared in The Smart Set. It is a splendid piece of fiction. Following this comes a delightful contrast in the short story by Justus Miles Forman, "The Young Person Next Door.," which is dainty and amusing: while its successor, "The Shadowy Past," oy James Branch Cahall, is a ski.ful nsy-

The late lamented Frank Norris is in evidence by a short story, "Two Hearts that Beat as One." full of the vigor and force that characterized his best work. George Hibbard contributes a good sentlmental Woman." A most curious and charming little tale is "The Story of Ignatius the Almoner," by H. K. Viele. "Difficult People" is the title of a short, meaty essay by Ella W. Peattie. "The Marquis Differs" is a splendidly dramatic dialogue by Alfred Sutro. An unusual kind of a golf story by John M. Oskison is called "The Tenaya Water Hazard."

Commodore Robert E. Peary tells at some length of "Hunting on the Great Ice" in Leslie's Monthly for January. The January number of the North American Review inaugurates a new era in the history of that venerable periodical, presenting to its readers the first chapters of a great serial novel—a class of literature a great serial novel—a class of fiterature which has never hitherto appeared in the Review. The first World's Work of the new year contains a wide variety of subjects written about in the concise, optimistic manner which is characteristic of this maga-tention with a somst striking cover detention with a somst striking cover design. A story by Mary E. Wilkins is featured. General Charles King comes second on the list with "A Honeymoon Hold-Pp." Among other well known writers in this issue are H. S. Canfield, Mrs. Moses P. Handy and Lynn Roby Meekins. The masterpiece of the month is by Thomas Hardy, the famous English novelist. Miss Wikins' story is particularly apropos for the month of February, it being entitled "A Truant Valentine." This popular authoress shows all her oid-time eleverness in touching the heart strings. As in all her work we find in this production that it is only a step from laughter to tears. Gen. Charles King's story is of more than usual interest. In "A Honeymoon Hold-Up" there is the soldier, the bandit and the love-lorn maid, meeting all the requirements of the most romantic enthusiast. H. S. Cantield's story is in his usual happy vein. He deals with Bohemian life, of which he is apparently thoroughly familiar. "The Rout of the Golden ly familiar. "The Rout of the Golden Fleece," by Mrs. Moses P. Handy, is a trifle Frenchy, but, nevertheless, it is done so delicately that it cannot offend. "The Lady Penelope." the story by Thomas Hardy, is equal to his best, and that is saying much, for all of those who are familiar with his "Tess." All in all, the February issue of "10 Story Boc.;" is an exceedingly strong one.

a police pension fund, which has been introduced in the legislature by Representative Tighe of St. Paul meets with considerable favor with the city administration of Duluth and others who have given the subject consideration. Several amendments to the bill have been suggested, which are regarded as necessary to make the scheme acceptable to all parties interested, and at the same time protect the interests of the

The bill, as it now stands, creates a board of pensions which is authorized to receive legacies, bequests or gifts to the pension fund, and to pass finally upon claims for pension. It provides for a direct tax of one-tenth of a mill on the property valuation of the city, the rate to be diminished whenever the amount in the fund exceeds the demands upon it. It places a maximum of $40 a month upon pensions, and for injury-pensions the allowance must be by unanimous vote of the board. The old-age pension provision requires the policeman to have reached 55 years of age and to have been twenty years in service. Whether he shall then be retired or not is not stated, though a board to call to duty such pensioners seem to imply retirement, and this is again made doubtful by making it the duty of the veteran to make application. The bill needs amendment on these points so as to remove all doubt.

The Duluth officials also believe that a tax of one-tenth of a mill on the city's property valuation is too high. They think that one-twentieth of a mill would provide a sufficiently large fund, It is also held that the provision for paying the pensions, as long as the retired officer remains in the city, should be amended so as to require that he reside in the city, otherwise the provision making him subject to call for duty in special cases would be in-

In cities where there is a police commission, that body, with the mayor, city treasurer and three officers chosen by the men in active service, are the pension board; where there is not a police commission, the chlef of police takes its place on the board. The administrative features of the bill seem to be well framed, and the measure, except in the particulars above noted, is calculated to do justice to public servants who are deserving of consideration in their old age, or when disabled in the discharge of their duty. WHAT IS PUBLIC WORSHIP?

A recent decision of the Illinois supreme court is of particular interest to religious people and property holders as well, lnasmuch as it decides that a Sunday school is not a service of publie worship in the sense contemplated by the law, exempting church property from taxation. The question came before the court in the case of property belonging to Christ Protestant Episcopal church in Joliet, Illinois. The church owned two lots, one of which was occupied by the janitor and also for Sunday school purposes. The board of review of Will county exempted the property from taxation, but the auditor of public accounts asked the supreme court to set aside this decision, which it did. Justice Boggs, in between public worship and instruction in the scriptures, and declared that only property used exclusively for worship was exempt from taxation. The decision says:

"It is essential to the exemption of church property under the statute that it shall be actually and exclusively used for public worship. The meaning of the words 'public worship' in the statute is the worship of God by prayer, praise and the preaching of the gospel. The character of the meetings closed, be held in the auditorium, does not appear. In the absence of affirmative proof to the purpose and characters of such meetings, the doubt which arises whether they were for the purpose of public worship must be solved in favor of the state and against the exemption of such property from taxation. Sunday schools are conducted in order to impart religious instruction to the youth of the congregation and community and not for the purpose of public worship. The distinction between congregational Platt. worship and the religious education of the young is broad and unmistakable." The Northwestern Christian Advocate, in discussing the case, says: "We delegation will give serious attention to do not think the argument of the court, that the Sunday school is not part of worship, is correct. The Sunday school, as those who have been connected with one know, is to a large extent the service in which children engage in public worship. There would e as much reason for an opinion on the part of the court that the sermon is not a part of public worship as it is to assume that the Sunday school is not a part of public worship." The majority of people will be inclined to think that the Advocate is about right

It is also notable that President Roosevelt has been especially careful of Southern sensibilities as to the class of offices to which he has appointed colored men. During his trip in the South, and in his conversations with Southern senators and representatives, it has been impressed upon him that what the whites particularly objected to was colored postmasters; many Southern women will not take mail from a negro. A postoffice comes into so close contact with a community's life destructive to life and property. "We He has appointed no new colored should recognize strikes," declares the postmasters, though he has renewed message, "as existing evils and as the term of several to whom there was dangerous to the public good, and while | no particular objection, and has taken mindful of the rights of both employer | decided objection to the running out and employe, adjust them from a by violence of a mulatto woman who higher standpoint, namely, for the was serving in this capacity in Missis-

Then she went back to Raiston.

There was a hurry call for the ambulance of the City Hospital. In the course of a few moments a very sick woman was brought in on a stretcher — she was pale as death and evidently suffering keen agony. There was a hasty examination and consultation, and in less than a quarter of an hour the poor creature was on the operating table to undergo an operation for ovaritis.

The above is an accurate account of an incident which occured in New York recently; the young woman in question had warnings enough of her dangerous condition in the terrible pains and burning sensation low down in her left side. She had no one to advise her, and she suffered torture until was too late for anything to save her life.

Women should remember that if they do not care to tell a doctor their troubles, they should be willing to tell them to a woman, who stands ever ready to advise and help them. Again we state that Mrs. Pinkham's advice is freely and confidentially given to every one who asks for it. Address, Lynn, Mass.

The following letters prove beyond question that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has the power to cure, and does cure thousands of cases of inflammation of the ovaries, womb, and all other derangements of the female organism.

Menstruation was irregular. At last I had to stay in my bed, and flowed so badly that they sent for a doctor, who said I had inflammation of the ovaries, and must go through an operation, as no medicine could help me, but I could not do that.
"I received a little book of yours, and after reading it I concluded to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am now a well woman. I shall praise your medicine as long as I live, and also recommend the same to any one suffering as I was." - Mrs. Minnie Ottoson, Otho, Iowa. (June 9, 1901.)

Follow the record of this medicine, and remember that these thousands of cures of women whose letters are constantly printed in this paper were not brought about by "something else," but by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, the great Woman's Remedy for Woman's Ills.

Those women who refuse to accept anything else are rewarded a hundred thousand times, for they get what they want — a cure. Moral INFLAMMATION OF THE OVARIES CURED WITHOUT THE KNIFE. "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM: - I wish to express my gratitude for the restored health and happiness Lydia E.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought into my life. "I had suffered for three years with terrible pains at the time of menstruation, and did not know what the trouble was until the doctor pronounced it inflammation of the ovaries, and proposed an operation.

"I felt so weak and sick that I felt sure I could not survive the ordeal, and so I told him that I would not undergo it. The following week I read an advertisement in the paper of your Vegetable Compound in such an emergency, and so I decided to try it. Great was my joy to find that I actually improved after taking two bottles, so I kept taking it for ten weeks, and at the end of that time I was cured. I had gained eighteen pounds

NEGRO EMIGRATION

To the Philippines Discuesed By D. H. Saunders

Kindly allow me space in your valuable journal to express the sentiment of my race in Duluth regarding negro emigration to the Philippine Islands, as set forth in a bill introduced by United States Senator Morgan of Alabama. I have been urged by my people to give my views on the project, and in reply to the proposition I will say. My attitude from early life has been to champion the cause of the unfortunate race, to which I bepasion for my people, and I will at all times give my financial aid, moral sup-port, and exert my influence whenever opportunity presents. I am a modern Republican unshackled from the Republican chain gang. I stand by the principles which are emblematical of our flagmade.

At no other meeting or conference were there any more important matters to consider than those which confronted the committees at Cincinnati during the last two days. Ordinarily baseball men would meet for a week without doing anything. On this occasion they met about fifteen hours in all and settled the most difficult problems in a most satisfactory manner. The fairness with which both sides acted and the consideration that both sides showed was most unusual

Even the members of the conference are astounded at the rapidity with which they took action. Credit for this is given to President August Hermann of the Cin-cinnati club. Clyde Fitch's "The Bird in the Cage," now running in New York, is the first comedy of village life the dramatist has written since concluding "Lovers" Lane." Mr. Fitch announced his intention of preparing another country play when the Brady production achieved its enormous success. "The Girl and the Stage" is the title of an article which Grace George has contributed to a popular magazine. Miss George's early success probably inclines her to an optimistic view of the possibilities of the connection. "Under Southern Skies" will remain on the road throughout the summer, visiting Atlantic City and like resorts. It will be remembered that William A. Brady successfully tried this experiment last year with "Lovers' Lane."

Accurate Treatment Of

The longest established, most successful and reliable specialist in diseases of men, as medical diplomas, licenses and newspaper records will show.

"WEAKNESS"

'weakness," has for years and generations baffled the efforts of physicians, yet to this very day a majority t by methods that have been in constant use and that have constantly failed for half a century. They dose the system with powerful stimulants and tonics calculated to restore nervous forces or strength that is not and never has been lacking, with a result that the functions are temporarily excited to the positive detriment of the patient. Weakness, we will call it such or convenience just now, is only symptom resulting from a chronically swollen and inflamed prostate gland, and is curable by local treatment only. Either early dissipation or some improperly treated contracted disease is responsible for the inflammation in most instances, though accidental injury, strain, etc., may produce the same result. I have permanently cured thousands of cases of prematureness, loss of power, which demonstrates the absolute accuracy of my understanding and treatment of the disorder. In years I have not met with a single failure, and I have entire confidence in my ability to cure all cases that come to me for treatment other than that which I have perfected can completely

CONTRACTED DISORDERS To but partially cure a contracted allow it to go untreated. Unless every particle of infection and inflammation is removed, the probability exists that the disease will gradually work its way is the danger of the prostate gland becoming chronically inflammed, which always brings partial or complete loss of power. Perhaps 25 per cent of the cases of so-called "weakness" are a direct result of some improperly treated disease. During the past five years I have treated over 6500 cases of contracted disorders and have effected an absolutely thorough and safe cure in each instance. There have been no relapses or undesirable developments whatever and my patients have been cured in less time than other and less thorough forms of treatment require in producing even doubtful results,

I guess at nothing. My understanding of men's diseases is so sufficient that I have no need to resort to guess work. To men's diseases alone I have devoted my entire attention for many years. I have closely studied them in every possible phase and complication. I believe

VARICOCELE Many men afflicted with varicocele are endangering their general health, their manly power and even life itself by allowing the disorder to remain uncured. Varicocele results from partial paralysis of the delicate nerve fibres that have a part in controlling local circulation of the blood. The muscular coating of the veins being deprived of nervous communication and control, become inactive, weaken and relax. The blood vessels expand from the pressure within, the circulation in the parts become sluggish, and frequently stagnant pools form in little nooks and pockets that constantly enlarge as the relaxation continues. The possibility exists that clots may form these stagnant pools and then pass out into the general circulation. Should one find lodgment in the valve of the heart the result might be instant death, or should it be carried to the brain, general paralysis will follow. I guarantee to cure varicocele in one week by a method that involves no cutting or ligature, or caustic. No other physician employs a like method, and so thorough is my work that there need not be the slightest fear of a relapse into the old condition. Those who have been long afflicted with varicocele will never realize the injury it has caused until they feel the vim, energy and buoyancy of spirts that a complete cure will bring. and permanently restore strength and STRICTURE the necessity for surgical operations, even in severe cases of long standing. I do no cutting or dilating. No other physician employs my methous of overcoming this disorder, so the service I offer you is original and distinctive. Do not give up hope because others have failed. I will cure you and the cure will be a prompt and painless one. My treatment dissolves the stricture and permanently removes every obstruction from the urinary passage, subdues all inflammation, relieves all irritation or congestion that may exist in the kidneys or bladder, reduces enlargement of the prostate gland and restores to health and tone all organs affected by the disease.

SPECIFIC BLOOD POISON

I permanently cure this most hideous of all blood diseases. I employ harmless, blood cleansing remedies that positively drive the very last taint of virus from the system, and every symptom vanishes to appear no more.

Three years ago the basketball club was formed by M. A. Edwards, Fred Rix and John Jollymore, a total of five members; and today the same club has about 35 members in good standing and four good teams. The Proctor first team will play the West Superior normal school alumni team at Proctor Friday, Jan. 23d, and an interesting game is looked for. The Junior team will also play a game with the Irving school team in the near future.

Mrs. James McCurdy entertained a few gare as the head the man he went after: Two men who saw Jackson at the Northera Lumber company's camp, near the mountain, the morning of the murder, swear the captured man is the man who left camp and then again two men at the same camp say he is not the man at all. At any rate he was taken to Duluth Monday and shown to Lake, who said he would know the man. There is some little suspicion that Lake is not telling the truth in some cases, and the coroner's inquest did not let him out of the shadow of doubt. His story of the affair conflicts considerably with that of the men at the camps.

That's the secret of well kidneys. Hundreds of Duluth people will tell you so. The Little Conqueror of Kidney Ills has been making conquests in Duluth for years. Your own friends and neighbors have been cured-Could you ask any better proof than their testimony?

DULUTH PROOF

Mrs. C. M. Bradley, of 109 West First street, says: "For two or three years. my kidneys bothered me a good deal and the usual home remedies gave me but very temporary relief. I had a heavy aching pain across the small of my back, and it was painful for me to stoop. I could not rest comfortably nights and in the morning rose tired and unrefreshed. I was also bothered a great deal with nervousness. The kidney secretions were irregular and unnatural and deposited a sediment. I went to the Duluth Drug company's store and procured a box of Doan's Pills. I had taken only a few doses when I felt better and by the time I had finished the prescribed course of treatment it was unnecessary to continue taking the remedy.'

B. C. Block, W. F. Mayer and J. H. Fuel Shortage the One Disturbing Element In Business.

New York, Jan. 17 .- R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: Fuel shortage is still the one serious disturba day for a day's wages, and no limit ing element in the industrial situation. Transportation shortage has been a great retarder to commerce because of lack of cars. Mines are more fully operated, but there is no prospect of normal conditions until spring. Examounts to about $1.75 a week for each tremely low temperature during the past week stimulated distribution of heavy clothing and other seasonable goods. Retail trade was accelerated by the customers clearances sales, especially in dry goods and kindred b:anches. Traveling men are sending in iarge orders for spring goods, the volume of the advance business being surprisingly large for this time of the year. Quiet conditions in the iron and steel markets do not mean dullness or diminishing consumption, but merely the oversold condition of furnaces and mills, together with great uncertainty about keeping plants active on day to day supply of fuel. Inquiries are numerous, especially in structural lines, but makers are not ready to accept bids until the future appears more definite. New plans constantly come forward for large office buildings, notably at the West, which means vigorous consumption of structural steel, and the demands from ear builders are phenomenal. Practically the entire capacity of the leading plants is already booked for six months, and at many concerns the last half of the year will bring no idleness unless orders are reduced. Quiet conditions in leather have been helped by an increased demand in standard upper, shoe manufactures placing liberal orders. Last week slight recovery in the hide market was not > sustained. Dry goods trade has increased in volume, buyers arriving in great numbers and prospect favors great activity. There is little disposition to anticipate wants in the cotton goods division, but Immediate needs have evidently grown more pressing. In the woolen goods division, the opening of the week showed some advances. Only moderate fluctuations have occurred in the staple department with tendency of higher prices. Higher prices have been charged for refined sugar, and raw grades are firm, but weakness is the feature in coffee, owing to excessive supplies at all points. Failures for the week numbered 267

MARKET REPORT.
Itecelved over private wire of B. E. Baker grain and stock broker, 507 Board of Trade.
Chicago, Jan. 17.—Today's wheat market ket was again strong with prices u slightly more than the early low point of 77%-78c for the May. From that point the advance to 79c was practically without reaction. There was much more than the ordinary activity and strength in Northwestern markets so far as cash wheat was concerned, millers being in active competition for all grades. Eastern exporters report that the seaboard country is entirely depleted of stocks of suring is entirely depleted of stocks of spring wheat flour. Buffalo wheat stocks showed a decrease or 400,000 bus for the week. The trade is making a decrease in the visible, estimated at about 100,000. The Pacific coast scituation is creating more than ordinary bullish sentiment. Should rain fall within a week or ten days, damage is anticipated. Northwestern advices are that practically every bushel of contract wheat in country elevators and at terminal points has been sold to miliers. When the May wheat reached the even 79c, there was a good deal brought into the six in the pay of profit-toking. This crepit in the way of profit-taking. This created a temporary uneusiness, but the tone at the close was strong and builish. Estimated evers Monday, 50.

the general corn situation as very strong. Estimated receipts for Monday, 485 cars. There was a good tone in oats, average prices being slightly under yesterday. Receipts in this market overran shipments. Private houses are contributing large quantities of standard oats. Estimated receipts for Monday, 360 cars.

TRUSTS

Have Made Agreement With Republican Leaders on Legislation.

Chicago, Jan. 17.-Walter Wellman, in a Washington special to the Record-Herald, says: Anti-trust legislation. so-called, but legislation which the trusts are wholly willing to have, is likely to be passed by the present congress. In fact, what amounts to an agreement or understanding has been ket should go much higher eventually. reached between the leaders of the Republican party in Washington, as the party of the first part, and the representatives of some of the most powerful trusts in the country as the party of the second part. The agreement is to pass a nominal anti-trust bill, but to take good care that nothing shall Republican party in Washington, as to take good eare that nothing shall appear in it which the trusts have any objections to.

the so-called anti-trust bill when it finally becomes a law. The agreement between the trusts and the Republican leaders calls for these provisions: Publicity of the operations of inter-state trusts through reports to a gov-ernment department.

More drastic law against discriminations and the payment of rebates by common carriers; shippers who receive rebates to be punishable the same as transportation company officials who pay them. The administration of the trust law to be turned over to a new department of commerce, to be created by congress.

and that department to have a bureau of insurance and corporations to deal directly with trust reports and publications. It is, of course, possible that nothing will be done, but if anything be done it will be the foregoing program. It does not matter what the judiciary committee, or sub-committee of the house does; that sub-committee is just now very active. It saw the president Thursday. Yesterday it called upon the attorney general and received some more suggestions; now it is preparing its little bill. If it catches onto the scheme the trusts have themselves arranged, the committee may gain credit for proposing a winning measure. The president, the attorney general, the house judiciary committee and the house itself have not power enough to put through anything which the trusts object to. In trust legislation, as in almost everything else, the senate is the court of

STOCK GOSSIP.

Harriman to Paine, Webber & Co.: Conlers all higher in London; remainder of the list irregular. The tone of the financial articles in the New York papers this morning is more hopeful. The only argument they seem to have is that if the market won't go down with the professional element on top of it, it must eventually go up as a reflection of the general prosperity. Less than a third of tho total number of shares traded in a week ago Friday were traded in yesterday, ago Friday were traded in yesterday, showing a shrinkage of over 1,000,000 shares. This shows how completely the market has been left to itself by the pools. Renewed activity on their part would doubtless cause the market to respond quickly as there are now apparently no stocks pressing for sale. Ridgley to W. H. Laidley & Co.: Securities are now selling at prices which represent existing conditions and a further advance would only be justified by improved conditions, such as a sweeping decrease of imports, and general increase of net railway earnings from Jan. 1, etc. Insiders no doubt expect developments to be favorable, as they figure on a bull campaign this spring and unloading at high prices as the good news comes out. A continuation of the desultory short seling by traders, which has characterized the market ever since Dec. 15, will of course help the big men in their "philanthropic" designs. So far as I can see, the stock market conditions are good, and the outlook is for improvement. Moderate profits should be taken although the market should go much higher eventually.

THE COTTON MARKET. New York, Jan. 17.-The cotton market opened steady at unchanged prices to a decline of 2 points, which was better than expected, cables being considerably worse than had been looked for. The later tendency of the market was towards easiness under liquidation of long interests and an outlook for large receipts. The Manhattan building.

Liverpool market closed at a net decline of 3 points. Early estimates pointed to receipts of 23,000 against 23,000 last year, while the weather may showed too much while the weather may showed too much rain in important parts of the cotton belt for a generally free movement. Selling in the local market was checked by strong accounts from Alexandria with one cable reporting 12 per cent dividends by some of the Egyptian cotton mills. Commission houses sold to secure profits while leading shorts were the best buyers. The South was a moderate seller here. A few European orders were executed early after which the foreign contingent dropped out as a factor.

the proposition may be printed upon a separate ballot, if so provided by law. A bill of considerable interest to St.

Louis, Lake, Cook and Itasca counties will be introduced in the house Tuesday, when the legislature reconvenes by Representative Cole, of Walker. It provides that logs shall be taxed at the place in which they are cut, instead of at the place where the owner resides. This will give to these northern countles a large amount of taxes that now get away, should it become a law. A large number of timber owners live in the Twin Cities, particularly in Minneapolis, and those counties now get the tax on the cut. Much timber is cut in this state and sawed in Wisconsin and other states, and the Cole bill will hold within the state the taxes on such

There was introduced in the senate yesterday a bill granting the state of Wisconsin Barron island, in the Mississippi river, opposite La Crosse, consisting of about 200 acres. La Crosse wants to make a park out of the island, and a citizen of that town has offered to give $100,000 for its improvement if title can be secured from Minnesota. The title to the island is in A. W. Pettibone, who is improving it and who wants to deed it to La Crosse "I am in favor of reciprocity," said Senator Pugh yesterday afternoon in reference to the bill. "If Wisconsin will give us 200 acres of land in Douglas county, across from Duluth, in exchange for Barron island, I will vote for the bill, but I do not believe the state ought to give away part of its territory without adequate compen-nator Barker's bill pulting slab of the surveyor general of logs and lumber, and providing for an inspection and grading of such fuel, is similar to one introduced by him last winter at the special session. It is designed to protect farmers who ship wood to the cities, and while in effect it applies to Duluth, it will not have much if any weight here.

A tax bill introduced in the senate by Senator Dale is likely to create some comment, and when sentiment is settled upon it it is likely to meet with some opposition. It provides that all penalties, costs and interest on real estate taxes collected by the county treasurer shall be apportioned to the county revenue fund. As most of such receipts are now apportioned to the state, city, town, village and county funds, the municipalities and communities which would be deprived of a share by the proposed bill may kick.

> Since the building inspector's annual report for the city of Duluth, there has been some comment among the local realty dealers as to the efficacy of the present system of issuing building permits. Some claim that the system is not practical, that there is no reason why fictitious values cannot be given by the intending builders in nearly every instance. While it is not the intention of the greater part of the people taking out building permits to underestimate the cost of their building, yet nearly everybody does so when basing estimates on first plans of the architects. The tendency is certainly towards underestimation rather than over-estimation of values, for it is not human nature for a man to desire to pay any more than he has to for his building permit. In the city of Milwaukee, Wis., permits are paid for on the basis of the amount of cubic feet of space in the building. While this system has, undoubtedly, its faults, yet, in the main, it works satisfactorily. The new Chicago ordinance requires that a plat of the ground on which the new building is to be erected must be submitted, together with a ing department three days for consideration, before the permit is granted. There has been some argument advanced that it would be a good idea to have the plat and plans left permanently with the bullding inspectors, enabling the department to keep check people say, "I could have bought this or that at such and such a price," naming a it to post up on any building that was on the work as it advanced, and enable destroyed, or which it was proposed to alter at some future time. It is claimed that this system would remedy all evils resulting from carlessness in Issuance of permits, either to persons other than owners, or to "straw men," and fictitlous valuations, or under valuations, so frequently made to deceive the public or the assessor. It is said that compulsory filing of plans for proposed work with the inspector would be no injustice to honest persons, and would be a great help in aiding the depart. ment to prosecute the work legitimatel;

They Katherine Bell to Jerome Kelleher, observe the low price made in St. Paul on asphalt paving, of $1.75 per yard, and when they remembered that they have to pay the same company $2.45 for work to be done this spring, they grew so warm that the ice was melted in the

THE "DEARIE" LETTER. Judge Harney Does Not Deny Writing It.

Butte, Mont., Jan. 17.-Judge E. W. the ownership of the $10,000,000 Minnie Healy mine. Judge Harney did not deny the "dearie" letter, to which he referred as "gushing." From "gushing,", Judge 1 Harney was drawn to the admission that he had imbibed so freely that he could not keep his eyes open, and therefore adjourned court. The witness also acknowledged meeting Mrs. Brackett at her home one night and of her fear to have him go because she was afraid to be left alone. Many times during his examination Judge Harney's memory failed him and he could not recall the name of the 200 hotel at which he and Mrs. Brackett stopped upon their trip East. It developed that during the conference at which, it is alleged, he was offered $25,000 by Charles W. Clark to confess that Heinze had bribed him in 10,500 the Minnie Healy case, the judge carried a 45-caliber gun in a specially

Representatives of the Lackawanna Company Continue Evidence.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 19.-That interest in the proceedings of the anthracite strike coal commission is waning was strikingly illustrated today when the commission opened its thirty-seventh day. Of the twenty-five lawyers representing the coal companies only five were in attendance, and only one of the nine attorneys for the miners was on hand when the proceedings began. the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Railroad company, who was on the witness stand Saturday, was the first witness called today. He testified that the company never heard any complaints against paying the men by the car instead of by weight, until the advent of the United Mine Workers. He said it makes no difference whether the miners are paid by the car or by weight, so long as the rate paid is fair. The company, he said, never had any trouble regarding wages until the union came into the field. Col. Phillips said the contract min ers will now cut only five or six cars of coal each instead of six or seven as they did previous to the strike of 1900. town of Duluth has been revived by past week and numerously signed, and which asks the legislature of Minnegota to legiclize the bonds and cause their payment to be authorized. Chairman Rudolph App of the town board of the town of Duluth is opposed to any such measure, and says that the principal taxpayers of the community are with him, as well as his two colleagues, Supervisors Archie Larrive and William Croft. The former, he said, had signed the petition, not understandingly, but had since removed the name. There is objection to the granting of the petition, and fear that it may be railroaded through the legislature without proper hearing and under suspension of the rules, as a matter pertaining to a single township and not of general interest. The story of the bond issue and sub sequent scandal in the town of Duluth is one of the precious pieces of history of that versatile government. Mr. Lemieux at one time owned the McCon.ber mine, which he sold for $28,000. His ability in expert mechanics led him to patent the Lemieux hoisting machine and cable grip.

His health failed him about 1894 and he has been incapacitated, as far as active business was concerned, ever since. For the past twenty weeks he has been confined to his bed with inflammatory rheumatism. He is survived by a widow and two children—Miss Clara Lemieux and In Claraence Lemieux. Both rumors are denied, but are causing a good deal of talk. The "section 4" property is located in 58-11, and is one of the A. M. Miller holdings, though several Duluth men are interested. The story was that the Clergue people were about to purchase that. One of the members of the company said to-

"There have been several offers made for the property, but it is not under option or lease, and it is improbable that a sale will be made at all. At least there has been none so far, and I have no knowledge of the Clergue people having made any purchase of it."

The rumor regard the Section Thirty property was outlined and was in effect that the Clergue interests have given about $1,000,000 and their rate of payment is 50 cents a ton. is 50 cents a ton.

Officials of the company in the city say that there is not any truth in the rumor regarding the Clergue deal, though the gossip about it has been rife for a long time.

Meeting of the Baseball Magnates Will Be Stormy.

Cincinnati, O., Jan. 19.-Although Herrmann, of Cincinnati; Robison, of St. Louis; Hart, of Chicago, and Dreyfuss, representing both Pittsburg and Philadelphia, are still confident that the peace argreement with the American league will finally be ratified, it is evident that the meeting of the National league this afternoon, to consider that agreement, will be a stormy one. On account of the injunction, Dreyfuss, with his two votes, cannot go on record. New York and Brooklyn are openly opposed to the agreement, and Boston is considered neutral. Both sides have their attorneys and are proceeding under advisement. President Pulliam will preside. There will be no evasion of the injunction, and no attempt at ratification unless the injunction is dissolved. The meeting will proceed with the consideration of the agreement to ascertain definitely how the National league stands. The peace advocates say that five to three is the worst that can come, but two, and even predict after a full discussion of the situation, that it will be unanimous, and the injunction dissolved. In the event of a rupture, both sides will leave Tuesday for Philadelphia to participate in the hearing of the motion Wednesday, to make the injunction permanent.

Export Trade of United States Resumes Expansive State.

December Exports Reach Highest Mark For That Month.

Increase of Twenty-Three Million Dollars Over November.

Washington Bureau. Washington, Jan. 19 .- (Special to The Herald.)-The export trade of the United States has resumed its normal and expansive condition. From the low figure due to the failure of the corn cucp last year and the unusual demand at home, the export figures have increased from $88,000,000 in June to $148,000,000 in December, and reached the highest mark ever made by exports in the month of December. June July in the month of December. June, July and August of the year 1902 were the only months since August, 1859, in which the export figures fell below the $100,000,000 line, and this was due to the causes above indicated. With the arrival of the new crops of breadstuffs, cotton and provisions, the exports have rapidly advanced, the increase in December over the preceding month, as shown by the statement of the treasury bureau of statistics, being about $23,-000,000, of which the value of $11,000,000 is in cotton, $5,000,000 in provisions, $4,-000,000 in breakstuffs and $1,000,000 !n mineral oils. The December exports are $11,000,000 in excess of December, 1901, $3,000,000 over the banner year of 1900, $10,000,000 more than in 1898, $30,-000,000 more than in 1896, $56,000,000 more than in 1895, $61,000,000 greater than in 1892, and actually double those of 1887. Only one month in the entire history of our export trade-October, 1900-shows as large a figure of exports, while in no December have the experts reached as high a figure of value as in The following table shows the Deember exports at quinquennial periods steady upward tendency in the export rade of the United States, though marked by occasional checks due to unsual conditions of production:

April, 1897, when the imports were abnormally large by reason of the approaching change in tariff. Importa-ions free of duty are $40,668,113, against $29,145,669 in December, 1900, indicating that the increase is chiefly in manufacturers' material, which form the oulk of the non-dutiable articles. The otal imports for the year ending with December are far in excess of any preeding year, being $969,270,009, against $880,419,910 in 1901, $829,149,714 in 1900, $823,397,726 in 1890, $696,807,176 in 1880, and $461,132,058 in 1870. ### THE STAGE

Daniel Sully, of "Parish Priest" fame, presented to two large audiences of Duluth playgoers Saturday, his new vehicle entitled "The Old Mill Stream." In it Mr. Sully creates for himself a part of the hero-philosopher-ruler, warter, which is entitled "The Old Mill Stream." In it Mr. Sully creates for himself a part of the hero-philosopher-ruler variety, which is characterized in the profession as "fat." Mr. Sully in building his new play, (he wrote it himself), took good care to see that Mr. Sully received all the handclaps for all the admirable scenes and bits of the play. If there is any humor, Mr. Sully reads it: If deep pathos, Mr. Sully reads it: if heroics, Mr. Sully reads it: if heroics, Mr. Sully preads it. In doing this Mr. Sully proffered himself as an object of criticism to the public; he assumed the responsibility of being the whole show, and hos proficiency of deficiency, as the case may be, determines the character of the entertainment.

Without wishing to stimulate the business of playwrights it might be a good suggestion to Mr. Sully that he employ a playwright to whip his ideas into shape. The play deals with the subject of a headstrong, inexperienced country girl, who falls in love with a "city chap." In his blunt Irish way the author has told details of a story that a person of tact and consideration would not "arrate in his family circle. He might continue to convey the same general idea, but it would have a stronger moral tendency and a far more pleasing effect, if certain details were left to the Inferences of the hearer. To judge from the countenances of many men and women who attended the performance together, it is fair to ashearer. To judge from the countenances of many men and women who attended the performance together, it is fair to assume they were of the same opinion.

Mr. Sully has selected two live, though hackneyed interests, for his plot, though the latter is not developed and the play is without climaxes. One is love and its ultimate fulfilment, the other personal spite mate fulfilment, the other personal spite and its correction. Mr. Sully as Uncle Bob, corrects the spite and directs the love into the proper course. He is magnanimous and forgives his enemies. He is generous and gives away 500 He is is generous and gives away $500. He is jolly and indulges in varied humor. He

He had just concluded his purchase to his entire satisfaction when a woman's voice said, in a sweet tone of surprise, "Why, this is Mr. Hollister, isn't it?" He turned and recognized Miss Mary Barth, a young society woman of his acquaintance whom he had met a score of times before without noticing particularly. Now, however, probably because of the unexpectedness of the meeting in the odd surroundings, he regarded with a mild interest, and it struck him that she was unusually pretty and graceful and had a smile that would have made her seem pretty even if her features had been nothing to boast of. She was with a party of three or four friends who were touring the Chetto, she explained, and she herself wished to buy a Russian samovar. She introduced Hollister to the party with an air of triumph. "He is a collector and knows everything about brass and china and things of that sort," she said; "every stamp and date and name you can 'im-That spoils this place for me," thought Hollister with some resentment, as the proprietress gave a start of surprise and ooked at him keenly. But he made himself agreeable, nevertheless, and helped with the purchases. And when, at parting, Miss Barth reminded him that he owed her mother a call that was almost past due, and gave a slight, friendly pressure of her little hand, he felt—well, ne did not know exactly how he did feel. But he made the call, and he the young lady so bright and and the people so generally plothat he soon made another, and another. Then he gave a little theater party and supper, and Mrs. Barth and Miss Barth were among his guests, not leng after which he was invited to dinner and found a callow youth named Symes, who, rather attentive to Miss Mary, one of the most disgusting specimens of humanity he had ever encountered.

As his women friends had been very few, it was quite natural that he should think of Miss Barth more or less.

had, to tell the truth, rather analyzed her. She was amiable, though with a pretty spirit of her own. Clever in many ways and well read. He liked to talk wit her, for she was sympathetic and had the rare and precious gift of a sense of humor. Yes, he liked her better, perhaps, than any girl he had ever met-but-and that was a serious matter-she had absolutely no appreciation of china beyond mere prettiness, and she was shockingly indifferent to intaklios and ivories and "No," he said to himself, "it would never do—never in the world."

Then he crossed the room and gazed long and adoringly at the Venetian vase. But it showed that at least he had Nevertheless he continued his visits, and his liking for her did not dimin-ish. Once or twice he found the man named Symes there, and on those casions he went away feeling depressed. At last he invited Mrs. Barth and her daughter to inspect his curios, and they came.

It would be hard to say just how many times Hollister was chilled and disappointed by the girl's attitude toward his treasures. On the other hand, it may be said, it would be hard to say how often he experienced different emotions alto-gether. But he had kept back until the last Venetian vase. He banked on that. ### was answer enough. BUSINESS VS. POLITICS.

The Commercial West: There is a business view point to polities that makes it permissible for a commercial paper to consider phases of political action. The Commercial West is interested in the development of Minnesota. It believes the policy of the present Republican leaders of the state is hurtful to business interests and helpful only to political inter-ests. The railroad merger has passed over to the courts and is practically a dead issue. But the campaign of hypocrisy that was covered up under the guise of patriotic opposition to it, is at last coming out where people can see it.
When Mr. Hill bought the Burlington the told truthfully why he bought it—to get at Southern coal fields, for the permanent liberation of the Northwest as to its coal supply, to ally with the Northern roads the great terminal facilities that the Rurlington affords, to connect that the Burlington affords, to connect Minneapolis and St. Paul with a great trade territory and to provide his orient route with enlarged traffic. Politicians and misguided pewspapers saw no benefits in all this and the "kiyi" of the political war dance was heard and Governor Van Sant was whirled along to a re-election. It did not follow that what Governor Van Sant stood for was wise, and as for the pretense of law enforcement, that becomes a burlesque under the character of the support given him.

Corporations every whit as "evil" as the Northern Securities company paid money to assist Governor Van Sant! Was it that law might be enforced? Fle on such dribble. It was simply to "beat Hill." But the recent defeat of a Van Sant speaker of the Minnesota house by a vote of two to one certainly does not indicate that Minnesota's governor is holding his own. And what has Governor Van Sant done for the business interests of Minnesota other than to administer well his departments? Look sharp at the record. He favored taxing business interests to death because he thought that was "good politics." The business men had to rush to the rescue of their interests. He fought the merger because that was "good politics," and made a campaign on It. It is the merger, however, that is today saving Mninesota from a coal famine the merchandizing of coal the business interests of Minneapolls, St. Paul an Duluth would today be suffering. And because he owns the Burlington he is hauling coal to Minneapolis and St. Paul, as he said he would do, for four-tenth of a cent a ton a mile! And Governor her | age of northern Minnesota lands, the most important question for this state to pass on, so that the "merger" can put a million people in the northern countries to buy goods of our jobbers. Which interest should the people tie to-the interest that "does" hings or the one that "does not" do things? If the business men of the Northwest are wise, they will begin to analyze. The issue is not that Mr. Hill, and other railand rights that are unequal, but that they shall be treated fairly. In his opening remarks the governor congratulated the already made, although a comparatively new organization. He said the members should be very proud of its pleasant home. He complimented the club on having the best men of the city it would be a great organization and would result in great good to the city of Duluth. The governor said the Duluth Commercial club would certainly do for Duluth what the St. Paul club has done for that city, a work with results that have not been accomplished by any other organization in St.

Situated as it is midway between two great oceans, with a climate and fertile soil that is unexcelled anywhere else in the eountry, with a splendid citizenship of men who accomplish what they undertake, there can be no doubt of the essibilities for the future. "Do you know that we of St. Paul have always regarded Duluth as the progeny of our own city, and as a token of appreciaion of this fact have brought along the governor of the state to help start you out, We want your co-operation. H. P. Hall, the veteran newspaper man of St. Paul, was the last speaker. He prefaced his talk with the recitation of a number of humorous couplets. Mr. Hall said that the Duluth club has had the advantage in the start of a larger membership than the combined Twin City commercial organizations had for charter membership. He predicted a successful career for the club and laid particular stress on the efforts of Secretary A. L. Preston in making the local organization what it is today.

Pruden, of the house committee of the St. Paul club, who further expressed the friendly feeling of the St. Paul club toward the Duluth organization. He thought the Duluth club has made a remarkable showing in membership in so short a time, and remarked that the St. Paul members believe that the star of destiny hangs over Duiuth. He quoted examples of other cities, showing where the ambitious activity of the citizens of one city has caused its commercial ascendancy over nearby municipalfities longer established. Said he: "We point to the destiny of Duluthto start in with, but with a necessity prosperity of Duluth, and when any of you come to St. Paul, if you don't want rected by the Commercial club, will a job, drop in and see your old friend." a job, drop in and see your old friend."

He referred to his first visit to the city in 1882 and declared that Proctor Knott's famous jest about the city has every indication of being worked out in earnest. He congratulated the club on its earnest. He congratulated the club on its rapid growth in membership and said that it was characteristic of the energy of the Duluth business men. Mr. Randall laid special stress on the importance of bringing more people into Minnesota to settle up the unoccupied farming lands of the state. The settlement of the country he declared to be one of the most important factors for the increasing of the tant factors for the increasing of the commercial prestige of the Minnesota cities. He spoke of the state fair as one of the institutions through which the citizens of Minnesota can properly work to bring about immigration into the state. Mr. Randall is earnest in his belief that the state fairs of Minnesota have done a great deal along the line of inducing the immigration into the state of farmers from the older settled portions of other states and believes that the movement can be made even greater in future years. He told of the growth of the state fair until it surpasses any other state fair on the continent. Last year 240,000 people visited the Minnesota state fair.

> District Court Officers. To the Editor of The Herald:

It is learned that the petition for the onfirmation of Court Officers Wesenberg and Thatcher as regular deputies on the sheriff's force, is being numerously signed sheriff's force, is being numerously signed by businessmen and other taxpayers, who reason from a business standpoint, that it is neither fair to the officers to lay them off during recess of court, nor profitable for the county, as the system would be very apt to necessitate the appointment of new men with every term of court, greatly to the detriment of the business of the court. It is argued that it is penny wise and pound foolish policy for the county to reach out after the saving of one-half, or one-third the salary of a couple of court officers, and perhaps inconvenience the court. The argument is certainly good sense, and worth the attention of the county commissioners.

THE COAL COMBINE

For Enormous Profit On Coal Consumed By Government.

Nebraska Members Agree on Bill Regarding Grazing Lands.

Entry of Bede and Landis Into Congress Causes Interest.

From The Herald

Washington Bureau. Washington, Jan. 19 .- (Special to The Herald.)—The several investigations and discussions of the coal question which have been carried on during the past two weeks have demonstrated that a coal conspiracy certainly exists in this and that a "combine" was organized for the purpose of forcing the government to pay an enormous profit upon the fuel consumed in the federal departments. Not satisfied with a profit which, under ordinary circumstances, would be considered extraordinary, these patriotic gentlemen have tried to force the government to pay 70 per cent, in some cases, more than the cost of coal to themseves. In doing this, however, it was found necessary "bilk" the general public out of even greater contributions. One dealer admitted under 'oath that he sold coal will come as a result of the investigations, and even under the most favorable circumstances the result of the passage of the rebate bill on Wednesday last will be so small as to be of no benefit to the consumer. But, on the other hand, congress is likely to make provision for the purchase of all the coal needed for the capitol and the department buildings direct from the mines, which will be a long stride towards breaking up a combination which has succeeded for years in forc-

After months of discussion the Nebraska delegation has finally agreed to a bill which they can unanimously support and for which Senator Dietrich stands sponsor. The bill, while by no means satisfactory to the cattle growers, is unquestionably the very best investigation will be supplied with bill that they can hope to be acceptable to the secretary of the Interior, and should the legislature of Nebraska memorialize congress in behalf of the measure, it is believed that the bill stands a very fair chance of becoming a law at this session. The bill is looked upon in the nature of an experiment, and its working out will be watched with much interest by the bordering states. For almost twenty years there has been a clash between the cattle growers and the government over the question of the invasion of the public domain. The growers of cattle have insisted upon occupying territory that would otherwise have remained unoccupied. And they have built fences enclosing large areas for the purpose of segregating the herds of different owners. This has been against the laws of the nation, and consequently the power of the government has been invoked against these so-called frequent that it was finally decided to attempt the passoge of a land-leasing law applicable only to Ncbraska, for the purpose of seeing whether it would solve one of the vexed problems which the interior department has had constantly before it for twenty years. The bill which Senator Dietrich has introduced and which has the approval of the assistant attorney general for the interior department and Secretary Hitchcock embraces the following provisions. It specifically limits the amount of land to be leased to any one person to twenty sections, compensation for which is to be fixed by the secretary of the interior. The land so leased must be unfit for irri-gation, and the leasehold is to run for ten years. No transfer of the lease is all persons are to have the right of homestead entry within the enclosure at any time. No land is to be leased except on application in writing, and when two or more persons are bidding for the same tract of ground, then the secretary is given the right of appor-tionment amongst the several applicants. There is a scientific section included in the bill which states that the bill is an experiment looking to the preservation of the native grasses. In this connection it is but just to say that Senator Dietrich has been an indefatigable worker in bringing the Nebraska delegation together as a unit for this bill, and has conceded much of his individual convictions for the sake

For the past four years congress has missed Rowland B. Mr, Mahany was witty and apt. He nad a clear, ringing voice, a pleasant manner of address and a pleasing presence. There are two men in congress now who are frequently heard, and one of whom is always attractive. He is Cushman, of Washington. Cushman is a tall, gaunt man, with a penetrating voice, a keen sense of humor, and a past master of the art of satirical expression. The other is John Wesley Gaines, of Tennessee, who takes himself seriously, is utterly devoid of for $20 a ton which cost him les than humor, who speaks on an average of twice a day, and who never yet sa anything which was remembered next in the next congress Mahany will probably have two very able successors. One is Fred Landis, of Indiana, a young man with energy enough to run a ten-horse power engine, and sufficient ability to make himself heard as well as felt in congressional debates. The other is J. Adam Bede, of Minnesota. Both men are known in Washington. Bede was a newspaper correspondent and a congressional clerk here some years ago. Afterwards he was appointed marshal for Northern ing the people of this city to pay more Minnesota by President Cleveland, He for the fuel used for domestic purposes did not hold the office very long, because he objected to the federal regulations which prohibited officials from taking an active part in politics. It is likely that tonight's council meeting may bring some new developments in the chain-gang situation, and efforts may be made to induce the county authorities to take them off the

The fact that out of thirty-eight men in the county jail, recently sentenced to hard labor, only eight were turned over to the department of public works, has set the city officers to thinking that they at least should have some say as to who should work and who should not, if they have to stand for the brunt of the grand jury censure. President Wilson of the board of public works said that this was tried at one time, and it simply encouraged thieves and drunks to court county jail sentences, in order that they might get a new suit of clothing and escape with

REVOLT IN THE SOUTH

Against President Roosevelt Said to Be Gaining Impetus.

Alabama Republicans Threaten to Indorse Senator Hanna.

Undercurrent That Is Dragging Hanna Into Presidential Race.

Cincinnati, Jan. 19.-A Washington dispatch to the Enquirer says: News that the Republicans of Alabama threaten to rescind a previous indorsement of President' Roosevelt and declare for Senator Marcus A. Hanna as the presidential nominee is the beginning of a revolt against President Roosevelt, which may be expected from other, if indeed not all, of the Southern States. It would appear ern contingent, has augered both. This action of the Alabama outfit is the brewing of the storm. It bus been sweet en public choice to an expression which | American authorities. is rampant, but has been kept down by Mr. Hanna himself. It is doubtless true for Cork, has been missing since last Mr. Hanna himself. It is doubtless true the Ohio senator does not care to go through the trials and vexations of a presidential canvass. It is likewise true he has repressed in so far as he could every overture which has associated his name with the presidential office. In spite, however, it crops out here and there that he is the most available presidential timber, and no matter how he may disregard and discourage it, his name from now on will be discussed as a presidential quantity. The match lighted in Alabama may burn slowly into such a flame that neither Hanna nor his friends can put it out.

In the assertions which have been made by Mr. Hanna that he did not want the presidency and would "not have the job," as he quite bluntly put it, the Senator has been absolutely candid. As he now feels he does not want it. But he is extremely solicitous that no untoward event shall intervene to destroy the present prosperiity of the country which, in his adgment, has reached the initial point, is this phase of the situation which makes Mr. Hanna the strongest candidate shock which may depreciate existing conditions. He is looked upon as a blunt, courageous, honest man, who does not move in parallel lines to accomplish an end. The crown princess of Saxony and M.

Yates, who last week requested Sheriff Barret, to prohibit boxing contests in Cook county, the six round contest scheduled for Monday night at the American Athletic club between Benny Yanger and Young Mowatt has been declared off the officials of the club. There have been 107 deaths from the plague since Jan. 1. The deaths on the 17th numbered 7 and many new cases are reported. Trade is reduced to the lowest possible point. A digester in the sulphite pulp and paper mill at Dexter, N. Y., exploded Sunday, killing one man and damaging the mill to the amount of $75,000. W. A. Scott, a jeweler of New Cumberland, W. Va., was robbed of money and jewelry valued at $2000 early Sunday. Scott, who is a paralytic and lives over his store alone, was awakened by three bandits who bound and gagged him and the stomach and digestive organs to then blew his safe open with dynamite transform all food into rich, red blood.

Consumption can certainly be cured. Not all cases, but very many. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is the medicine. J.C. Ayer Co., Lowell, Moss.

HEWITT IS DEAD

Former Mayor of New York Expired Sunday Morning.

Had Been Critically III For Past Ten Days.

Was For Many Years a Representative In Congress.

New York, Jan. 19.—Abram S. Hewitt, | Wants to Resute the Tesformer mayor of New York, and for many years representative in congress, died at 6 o'clock yesterday morning in his Sist year, having been critically ill for ten days. With him at the moment of death was his wife, three sons and three daugh-

Mr. Hewitt, who has been in feeble health for some time, was attacked with obstructive jaundice on Jan. 8 and from the first it was realized by his attending physicians, Dr. L. Keyes and Dr. L. Keyes, Jr., that there was practically no pe of the aged patient's recovery. On the following Sunday it was thought that Mr. Hewitt could not survive the night and the members of his family were summoned to his bedside, but his wonderful vitality kept him alive for a week longer. On Thursday Mr. Hewitt rallied so strongly that some hope was entertained that he might recover, but on the following the evidence given by Messrs. Morgan and night a relapse occurred and it became Perkins during the investigation, and

In 1875 Mr. Hewitt was elected to congress on the Democratic ticket, and except for one term he served until 1887, when he resigned to become mayor of New York city, defeating Henry George. In congress he was among the party leaders and accomplished much for his constituency.

During his term as mayor he reorganized many of the municipal departments and was one of the earliest advocates of municipal control and ownership of pubmunicipal control and ownership of public utilities.

In 1876 he was chairman of the national Democratic committee in charge of the Tilden campaign. Mr. Hewitt had for many years been active in the management of the Cooper Union founded by Peter Cooper. This institution has grown and thrived under Mr. Hewitt's management.

Mr. Hewlit's fortune is estimated at several millions. One of his sons is a successful electric engineer.

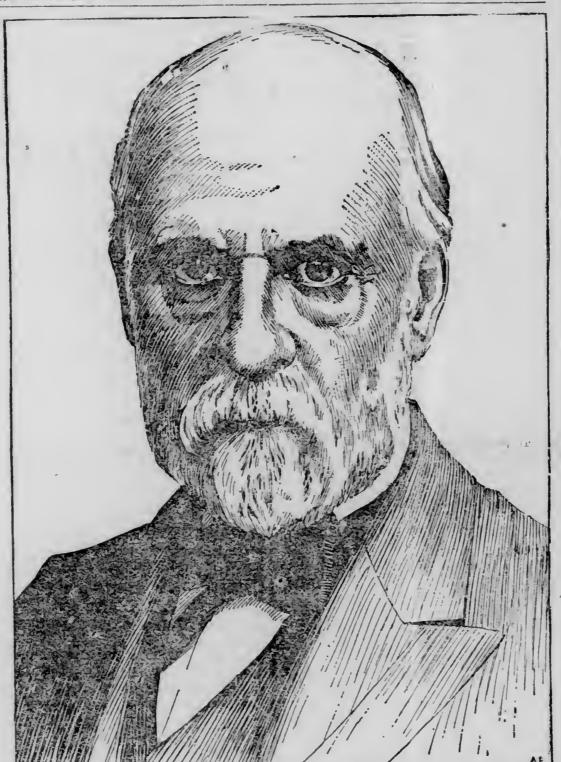

Recently his political views changed materially, and he gradually drew away from the tenets of the Democratic platforms, although he always clung to free beliefs.

Louisville, Ky., Jan. 19.-The Courier Journal says John W. Two men are dead are two others are perhaps fatally injured as the result of the explosion Sunday of a freight locometry on the Baltimore & Ohio railroad lar Monrovia, Md.

In deference to the wishes of Gov. Yates, who last week requested Sheriff mainted with Edward Cooper, the son of Peter Cooper and eventually became his partner in the firm of Cooper & Hewitt. Later Abram Hewitt married the only daughter of Peter Cooper. Abram Hewitt was active in the iron and steel business from the beginning and induced Peter Cooper to remove his iron works from an unprofitable location in New York city to a better one in New Jersey. Several branch concerns were established and the Ceoper mills were among the first to make iron beams anr girders for building. Mr. Hewitt tried many experiments in steel making, but was never discouraged by the fuilures he met with. The Bessemer process and the open hearth process found in him one of the most consistent advocates. Under his direction the business grew at a rapid rate, and the Cooper & Hewitt mills were among the first to make rallway rails in this country.

Mr. Hewitt was satisfied that the iron business could be greatly improved by studying new processes and methods consider and claim that the price of copper will go down and remain so is due to the enormous stock on hand Jan. 1, 1903, viz.: 279,594,559 pounds, this being the largest stock ever carried over except that held by the French syndicate. It is 52,-203,200 pounds in excess of the stock on hand Jan. 1, 1902. You will notice by the above statement that during the year America consumed and stocked itself with the largest quantity of copper ever known, while the exports to Europe to fill up their depleted stocks were the largest ever shipped, and all due to the cheap price of copper. Surprising as the large stock on hand is, it is more so, remembering as you do that for a time during the year the Anaconda, Butte & Boston, United Verde, United Copper and Boston & Montana were partly closed. With all the above mines producing in full as they will be in two months, cheaper prices for copper must prevail to act as a stimu.us to increase the consumption at home and abroad."

Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: News Ticker says: "Green Copper suit settled. This suit was of unusual interest by reason of the magnitude of the amount invelved, and which was on trial before Judge Herlek in Part 13, last week, was settled before going to the jury. The case grew out of an assigned claim by James Shirley to Mareus Stine, and involved an option claimed to have been given by W. C. Green in 1893, on 40,000 shares Green Copper stock, which was present market value of at least 10,000,000. The suit was compromised by the payment by Mr. Greene to Mr. Stine of 5000 shares of stock in ileu of the 400,000 claimed, thus ending the last of the important suits which have been brought against Greene and the Greene Consolidated company during the past four years.

(Millbanks chokes a laugh back. Agnes jumps nervously.) N.—Aggie, what is the matter with you? Never mind, when Dick comes up tonight, I will make him scold you for not acting your part better. You were to be so sweet and bright that my Tim was to fall in love with you before he found out that you were his much-despised sister-in-law. And when he does find it out, won't we be just the jollest, happiest little household in all New York? I get dread-fully blue with Tim away so much. You will be capital company for me. M.—How about that wine I ordered you to bring me?

A. (Goes down to portiere, back. Stands holding curtain aside.)—I'll be back with it in no time, sir. And, please, sir, that was just a slip of the tongue, my saying Nellie. (Aside.) And so he has got back; well we shall see soon what we shall see, (Drop curtain. Exit.)

A.—(Aside.)—Oh, we'll be tremendously jolly. I'd just as soon be housed with a Bengal tiger. (To Nellie.) Well, I should say you had done a lot of shopping. Here's a pair of gloves, for Tim, of course?

N.—(Laughs. Shoves parcels to end of shall see, (Drop curtain. Exit.) furs resume their life and softness, heavy wool wraps and gowns all are the better for such renovating process.

(While she is talking Millbanks goes through pantomime of surprise, pleasure and remore behind screen.)

N. (Clasping hands.)—It will make the dear old boy so happy, Aggie.

A.—Well, maybe so. A sort of machine made business, but I guess that is much better than he deserves.

N.—Nothing is half as good as Tim deserves, but macrine-made happiness. I suppose is better than none. Do order tunch. Then we will go over all the bundles. (Exit Agnes with parcels.)

N.—(Goes over to phonograph. Adjusts cylinder in machine.)—I had better go over the old ones first so as not to repeat. (Talks into machine.) You naughty Dickey-bird, ever to doubt that I love you. My husband may be thousands of miles away— (While she is talking Millbanks goes My husband may be thousands of miles away—

(Millbanks steals from behind screen. Tip-toes softly up behind her. Strikes penitential attitude.)

N.—But he knows that his Nellie loves him and is longing for him. That's all right. Now for a new cylinder.

Millbanks—(Sepulchral voice.)—Nellie, (Nellie turns with delightful scream.

N.—(Advancing.)—Don't touch you?
(Stan forward—he one backward.) Don't come near you? Why, Tim—(same business.) Keep off, why Tim! (Same business.) Tim, have you got anything catchiness.) This, have you get in a sing?

M.—(Shakes head dismally.) — Yes, dreadfully catching. I caught it on the train. Just from sitting with some fellows.
N.-(Still advancing.)—But what is it,
Tim? What do you call it?
M.-Don't call me Tim. Call me dog;
call me beast; call me snake; call my disease leprosy.

N.-(Screams; fall on sofa.)-Leprosy!

M.—It came very near being a machinemade murder. But, thank God, we can still do our own eating without the help of a machine. Let's have lunch. THEY HAUNT DETECTIVES. Murderers He Could Not Catch Disturb Him. The murderers I could never catch are the ones that always haunted my peace of mind," said Detective William Starkweather, of Detroit, to the Washington Star, I presume other slepths with like experience are similarly afflicted. Thirty experience are similarly attricted. Intry years ago, when I was much younger in the business of hunting criminals and in bringing them to justice, there were three murders in quick succession in Wayne county, of which Detroit is the county seat, two in the city and one in the interior of the county. Between the hours of 1 and 2 o'clock one morning a well-known and popular young drug clerk was found dead on the sidewalk in front of his place of business, with a bullet hole as near as could be in the center of his forchead. Three days later a well-known forehead. Three days later a well-known and popular police officer was found dead on his beat, between the same hours of the night, a few squares from the scene of the first murder. A buliet had struck him exactly in the eenter of the forehead. Just three days afterward a Frenchman named Abraham Dubois was found dead in his bed in the chamber of a farmhouse four miles from Detroit. The ball that pierced his skull entered exactly through the center of his forchead. "I was detailed in each case to solve the mystery and bring the murderers to justice. Three murders within one week were enough to rouse the inhabitants of the county and the authorities to the highest pitch. A singular feature of the crimes committed was the fact that all three men were killed by a revolver of 33-calibre men were killed by a revolver of 33-cambre and each man was shot in the center of the forehead. In searching for the murderer of the drug clerk we found one clew to work upon. He had been paying, we discovered, secret attentions to a young woman with whom a prominent business man was alleged to be in love. His standing was such that we were compelled to go slow in our investigations. pelled to go slow in our investigations, and we never did get enough evidence against him to warrant his arrest, nor to this day have we been able to come to a satisfactory conclusion as to who killed that young man. In the case of the police officer we had a little clearer salling. We were mortally certain that some thief ended his life, and although we arrested and 'sweated' nearly every crook in town we were never able to go beyond that "In the case of the Frenchman we at first thought we had clear sailing. Ho was a thrasher and had moved his machine on a certain Sunday night to the home of a farmer in the neighborhood, home of a farmer in the neighborhood, also a Frenchman, and was to begin work the next morning. When called, according to the testimony of the head of the household, the next morning he did not answer. The door was opened and Dubois was found lying on his back, dead. The old man, his young wife, his two grown sons by a former wife, were put through a severe course of questioning, but they claimed they knew nothing; they did not even hear the report of the weapon that ended Dubois' life. We had our suspicions as to the perpetrator of the crime and the motive, but we could not prove them to be realities, and there we prove them to be realities, and there we were, and there all three murders remain

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys, but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs. Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected, and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," 'begin taking the famous new discovery, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any-

These patients had kidney trouble, as diagnosed by other physicians, and treated without benefit. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root effected a cure. ible for more sickness and suffering than any other disease, and if permitted to much suffering with fatal results are sure to follow. Kidney trouble irritates the nerves, makes you dizzy, restless, sleepless and irritable: makes you pass water often during the day and obliges you to get up many times during the night. Unhealthy kidneys cause rheumatism, gravel, catarrh of back ache, eauses indigestion, stomach and liver trouble, you get a sallow, yellow complexion, makes you feel as though you had heart trouble; you may have plenty of ambition, but no strength; get weak and waste

The cure for these troubles is Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the world famous kidney remedy. In taking Swamp-Root you afford natural help to Nature, for Swamp-Root is the most perfect healer and gentle aid to the kidneys that is known to medical science. If there is any doubt in your mind as to your condition, take from your urine on rising about four ounces, place it in a glass or bottle and let it stand twenty-four hours. If on examination it is milky or cloudy, if there is a brick-dust settling, or if small particles float about in it, your kidneys are in need of immediate attention. No matter how many doctors you may have tried-no matter how much money you may have spent on other medicines, you really owe it to yourself to at least give Swamp-Root a trial. Its stanchest friends today are those who had almost given up hope of ever becoming well again. ## I WILL CURE YOU OF RHEUMATISM

Else No Money Is Wanted.

Any honest person who suffers from Rheumatism is welcome to this offer, I am a specialist in Rheumatism, and have treated more cases than any other physician, I think. For 16 years I made 2009 experiments with different drugs, testing all known remedies while searching the world for something better. Mine ing the world for something better. Nine years ago I found a costly chemical in Germany which, with my previous discoveries, gives me a certain cure.

I don't mean that it can turn bony joints into flesh again; but it can cure the joints into flesh again; but it can cure the disease at any stage, completely and forever. I have done it fully 100,000 times. I know this so well that I will furnish my remedy on trial. Simply write me a postal for my book on Rheumatism, and I will mail you an order on your druggist for six bottles of Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Cure. Take it for a month at my risk, If it succeeds, the cost is only $5.50. If it fails, I will pay the druggist myself—and your mere word shall decide it.

I mean that exactly. If you say the results are not what I claim, I don't expect a penny from you.

ect a penny from you. I have no samples. Any mere sample that can affect chronic Rheumatism must be drugged to the verge of danger. I use no such drugs, and it is folly to take them. You must get the disease out of My remedy does that even in the most difficult, obstinate cases. It has cured the oldest cases that I ever met. And in all my experience-in all my 2,000 tests -I never found another remedy that would cure one chronic case in ten. Write me and I will send you the order Try my remedy for a month, as it can't harm you anyway. If it fails it is free. Address Dr. Shoop, Box 685, Racine, Mild cases, not chronic, are often cured by one or two bottles. At all druggists.

It has been asserted constantly that we must acquiesce in the demands of Great Britain and Germany against the republic of Venezuela, because from a naval standpoint we were unable to cope with both or either of these nations. If this be the case, we, with $700,000,000 in our treasury are certainly able to build up a navy which will make it possible—yes, absolutely certain—that we can enforce the principles which President Mouroe enunci-

It is within the knowledge of every American today that even a little war, such as we have lately waged with Spain, and lasting less than 100 days, has cost more largely than the total expense of the battleships hereby contemplated, and it is also true that had we had a navy commensurate with our importance as a nation, Spain would never have consented to enter into a war with the United States, and the inferior nation of Europe would have shown full sympathy with the United States in her troubles which culminated in that war. Furthermore, the difflculty consequent upon the Spanish war would have been obviated, and the con-

WEDDING DELAYED

Result of the Gambling Episode of Reginald Vanderbilt.

Must Wait Until Summer to Marry Miss Neilson.

The Ceremony Will Probably Be Performed at Newport.

New York, Jan. 20.-The marriage of Reginald Claypool Vanderbilt and Cathleen Nellson, which was to have taken place soon, will be postponed until next summer. Both are very young, both rich, 000,000 of his own, yet fate and the fact that he is a multimillionalre have together brought bitter disappointment to him over a youthful escapade which would be overlooked in an ordinary young man.
"That would seem to be one of the penalties of being very rich, said a friend of Vanderbilt's.

"John Jones' son could go to Canfield's and lose a small fortune, yet no one would care, but the scion of one of the richest Are private formilies and its description.

would care, but the scion of one of the richest American families can't indulge in such follies without are news being trumpeted everywhere.

"The loss of social prestige which follows, even in the smart set where all sorts of extravagances are looked upon as a matter of fast, is shown beyond doubt by the results. Then there was the publicity of it, which alone is unpardonable. That the elder Cornelius Vanderbilt would have shown his disapproval might not have been publicly known until his will was read, but some think the young man would not have fared any better than his brother who was cut off with a million for marrying against his fatner's wishes if his adventure in the gambling house had happened durng the father's lifetime.

"Here is a bright young chap, who virtually starts out handicapped in life because he has no one to give him good advice. He was not of age when he fell into his great inheritance. Fawned upon at preparatory school and college by hypocritical friends, he did not know the dignity of reserve. He threw his money right and left, neglected his studies at Yale, and failed to pass his examinations.

"For years, like all the Vanderbilt boys, he was kept down by his father, who was not extravagant. He had enough, but no great lot of money to spend. When his fortune came he started throwing it. Automobiles, yachts and other things he craved and got, and he did not care.

"He was called to a halt by his brothers, but paid no attention to them. Then he met a charming girl, and she and her niother gave him the 'joit,' if I may use the word, which brought nim to his He'll be wiser soon. I'm sorry for his troubles. I think, however, it's a shame for Mr. Jerome to bring all this publicity on a youngster, when there is older, bigger game for him to shoot at." The illness of Mrs. Arthur T. Kemp, the sister of the bride-elect, and the notoriety following Mr. Jerome's crusade against "Dick" Cantleld, the gambler, in which the bridegroom was named as a possible witness, with all its disagreeable publicity attendant thereon, were urged as reasons why the two families had determony.

The district attorney is quoted as saying that he would not interfere with the matrimonial plans of the young man to the extent of having a subpoena served on him if he came to New York to get married. It is common knowledge that this subpoena actually was issued for his and no effort was made to deny that he knew of the gambling house, where he is supposed to have lost upward of $100.000 in one night's play. Under this circumstance, it is thought prererable to permit the limelight of publicity to be turned off on one much-quoted chapter of young Vanderbilt's life without still further atracting the general attention by a splen-

It was to have been celebrated at One Hundred and Fifth avenue, the home of Mrs. Frederick Neilson, the mother of the bride, but Miss Nielson is in favor of having the functions of the proposed and when the nection on a large scale, and when the nec essary arrangements came to be considered it was realized that the house hardly would be big enough to entertain the number of friends whom Miss Neilson is

The feasibility of building a temporary extension in the rear was discussed, but even with this enlargement there would be an almost certain danger of overcrowd-ing. Mrs. Neilson may decide to take a large house in Newport for the coming season, and if she does the young folks may wait till the summer in order to be married at the new establishment.

Mrs. Kemp's health has greatly improve and it is expected she can soon leave Roosevelt hospital.

The Vanderbilt family believe that Newport wedding will not be the cause of bringing up so much unpleasant talk, as by that time the Canfield incident will be comparatively old and practically audience at the Lyceum last evening at the performance of Walker Whiteside in "The Merchant of Venice," furnished some food for rellection for those who have been wont to lament his occasional depurture from the Shakespeare drama, for which he is so eminently fitted by art and nature for such plays as "Heart and Sword" and others of that stamp. The actor, wedded to his art though he may be, must live, and the box office receipts play an important part in supplying him with the necessaries of life. The plaudits of a small audience may often be more enthuslastic than those of a much larger one, but it takes something more than artistic appreciation to keep a company on the road in these days of prosperity. The theater was about half tilled, whereas in his productions of the light and frothy drama he was greeted with crowded houses. Mr. Whiteside's Shylock is a most interesting study. His conception differs considerably in parts from that of other artists. It is repressive rather than demonstrative and emotional. Emotion there is, but it is more in the expressions of the face and the body than in vocal demonstration. The Shylock of Whiteside is not a frenzied creature, tearing passion to tatters, but a man of deep feelings, his mind and sympathics distorted by the opprobrium heaped upon him because of his race. Repulsive as is the character. Mr. Whiteside makes it dignified, pathetic, and gives to it probably as strong a sympathetic tone as is possible. He makes rather less of the old Jew's affection for his daughter than do some, but the feeling glimmers pression which characterizes his conception of the part is more manifest in the scene after the discovery of his daughter's llight than in almost any other portion of the play. The frenzy of the Jew is less demonstrative than that which possibly one would expect, yet the anguish and bitterness is there and the scene is none the less powerful for its lack of noise and action. The court scene is strikingly powerful. Silent suffering is the keenest, and the terrible anguish that comes to the Jew, with the decree that he must become a Christian, breaking down the last vestige of his strength and reducing him to pitiable abjection, was possibly the most striking scene, the climax of Mr. Whiteside's conception.

THE STAGE

Mr. Whiteside's support averages well. Miss Leila Woolstan is not a great Portio, but she plays the part acceptably. Mr. Evart is a pleasing Bassanio, and Mr. Clifford a fair Grationo, although in the court scene it must be confessed that he loses the Hundreds of men have been imported from adjacent states, but there is still a great scarcity and the demand or hands, experienced or not, apparently is increasing. Wages of unusually generous proportions are being offered, about $30 a month and board being the minimum paid to green hands, while the older woodsmen are getting $45 and even more they demand it. As it is, the best of food and accommodations must be provided or the men will not stay at the camps, and with the increased wages in vogue and the scarcity of help, the logging operator evidently has abundant reason

The story deals with char-A contemplation of the size of the audience at the Lyceum last evening at the performance of Walker Whiteside in "The Merchant of Venice," furnished some food for reflection for those who have been wont to lament his occasional departure from the Shakespeare drama, for which he is so eminently fitted by art and nature for such plays as "Heart and Sword" and others of that stamp. The actor, wedded to his art though he may be, must live, and the box office receipts play an important part in supplying him with the necessaries of life. The plaudits of a small audience may often be more enthuslastic than those of a much larger one, but it takes something more than artistic appreciation to keep a company on the road in these days of prosperity. The theater was about half filled, whereas in his productions of the light and frothy drama he was greeted with crowded houses. Mr. Whiteside's Shylock is a most interesting study. His conception differs considerably in parts from that of other artists. It is repressive rather than demonstrative and emotional Emotion there is, but it is more in the expressions of the face and the body than in vocal demonstration. The Shylock of Whiteside Is not a frenzied creature, tearing passion to tatters, but a man of deep feelings, his mind and sympathies distorted by the opprobrium heaped upon him because of his race. Repulsive as is the character, Mr. Whiteside makes it dignified, pathetic, and gives to it probably as strong a sympathetic tone as is possible. He makes rather less of the old

Jew's affection for his daughter than do some, but the feeling glimmers ception of the part is more manifest taken. in the scene after the discovery of his daughter's flight than in almost any other portion of the play. The frenzy and the scene is none the less powerful | leaving March 2 to March 17. for its lack of noise and action. The court scene is strikingly powerful. Silent suffering is the keenest, and the terrible anguish that comes to the Jew, with the decree that he must become a Christian, breaking down the last vestige of his strength and reducing him to pitiable abjection, was possibly the most striking scene, the climax of Mr. Whiteside's conception. Mr. Whiteside's support averages well. Miss Leila Woolstan is not a

He declares that unless steps are taken to put a stop to the practice, before the winter is over many of the small islands which have added much to the beautiful scenery of the river district will be devastated of trees, Most of the small islands in the river between West Duluth and New Duluth are owned by people having title to lands on the river front, and in some instances the owners are not aware that this cutting of timber without permission is going on. Some of the wners have already been informed that their timber is disappearing, and these are taking steps to either stop the practice or else prosecute the individuals who are cutting it. It is suspected that there has been some illegal cutting of green trees on Spirit island, which is owned by the state and quite heavily timbered. The river is well frozen over now, and the people that are cutting the wood are enabled to reach all the islands with teams and sleds. Citizens along the river are deploring this illegal practice, and claim that unless it is stopped some of the best scenery along the river will be destroyed. They are urging that the matter be agitated until the owners of the various islands take steps to protect their property.

A New Snip Subsidy

A new bill for ship subsidies has been introduced in congress by Representative Jenkins of New York. which is entirely distinct from the measures advocated by Senators Frye and Hanna. It provides for a rebate of 10 per eent of the present duties on all "goods, wares, merchandise, articles or things imforeign country, or from any territory, poperty of the United States, between which territory and the United States vessels of other than American registry are permitted to engage in the carrying trade, whenever such goods, wares, merchandise or things are carried in vessels of American registry." The bill provides an easy way of upbuilding the merehant marine. It avoids all subsidies, and, at the same time, gives American ships tremendous advantages over vessels of all other nations. The bill is simplicity itself. It provides that upon all imports into the United States from foreign countries, or from the foreign possessions of the country, where foreign vessels are permitted to engage in the carrying trade between there shall be allowed a rebate of 10 per cent, of the duty imposed by law upon goods carried in vessels of American registry. According to the advocates of the bili three things are accomplished by the are encouraged and protected, and cheaper foreign freights are assured both upon imports and exports. It is apparent to anyone who will consider the matter but a moment that the rebate allowed by the bill would be divided between the freight payer and the freight carier. ### CLEANING THE WALKS.

In a letter to The Herald a few days | through the Dardanelles is a matter ago, T. T. Hudson protested against of much greater importance than apthe attempt to abandon the home rule principle by asking the legislature to grant power to the common council in the present condition of affairs, and and board of public works to compel | the British government, in making a he property owners and levying the cost against the property as in the case of street improvements. It cannot be denied that there is some merit in the protest, and that the proper way to have secured the power desired would have been by submitting an amendment to the charter to the vote of the people at the approaching city election. This procedure would have preserved intact the home rule feature and would have also secured an expression of public sentiment as to the desirability of cleaning the sidewalks according to this plan. But that procedure was not adopted, and as it would be unwise to go to the expense of a special election on the subject, the only way the necessary authority can be secured before another winter comes is to secure an act of the legislature at its present

Mr. Hudson also takes issue with the plan of assessing property owners for removing the snow from the sidewaiks and contends that the proper solution of the snow problem is to have passageways on the principal streets and avenues made by the maintenance department of the board of public works. He thinks that a few plows with city teams attached could do all the necessary cleaning within a very short time after each snow storm. He does not, however, believe that it is necessary to clear all the snow off the sidewalkshis idea being "a reasonable effort should be made to clear passageways upon the walks, along public narks, crossings and private property, so that the public can conveniently travel thereon." But he fails to indicate how the city can accomplish anything towards forcing property owners to make even the "reasonable effort" to clear passageways that he favors. If sting rule forbidding warships to pass the city has no power to compel prop- through the Dardanelles in time of erty owners to clean all the snow off the walks abutting their property it | would undoubtedly result in unprececertainly has no power to compel them | dented activity in her Black sea naval to make passageways through the dock yards, which would be followed snow. It appears, therefore, that Mr. by her appearance in the Mediterranean Hudson really believes that when property owners fail to comply with the request of the authorities to remove the snow, no compuision should be used, because he advocates another plan, saying: "A practical method which would very much improve the conditions of the walks, would be for the city to have half a dozen snow plows or scrapers-simple triangular implements such as the city formerly used-and have the city's maintenance and repair force, which is usually upon the payrolis, hitch a horse to each one of these plows, immediately after each snow storm, and clear passage-

Nearly all the big tracts are taken up, and the big men are acquiring new interests daily. Yes, a large number new interests daily. Yes, a large number of Wisconsin men, including myself, took up Western timber lands, and there is niso a large holding in Alabama, Mississuppl and other Southern lands. ### BEATRICE JOYCE, WIDOW

By D. E. Meadows.

(Copyright, 1903, by Daily Story Pub. Co.) "I am really very glad to see you, Gerald." and the speaker laughed gaily as she seated herself at a little round table, half hidden from the view of the other diners in the fashionable restaurant, by the motionless branches of a tall paim. She was tall and radiantly fair. Her gown, a Parisian product, was cut in the prevailing mode, fitting closely to the slender hips, then falling in volum-inous, graceful folds about ner feet. "Tell me about yourself," she contiued as the waiter, having laid the cloth with many flourishes and repeated their order in the duli monotone of his kind retired. "It's been a long time, you know," she added with a touch of sadness in the bitthe, sweet voice. The man smiled graciously, thereby displaying a very handsome set of strong white teeth, beneath the short, dark mustache. Gerald Deering, author and critic was more than delighted with this chance meeting, so fraught with roseate possi-"Really, Trix, there is but little to tell,"

He ilnished frankly, and the girl's quick ears caught the bit of weary cynicism in the well-modulated voice. Beatrice Joyce She did not answer. was thinking of another table at which they two had sat and dined twelve years ago. As in a dream she saw the boy's face ablaze with the eager enthusiasm of youth. Once more she heard quick, impet-uous tones as he told her of his love and ambitions. Marriage just then was out of the question. A wise mother forbade of the question. A wascample of the lovers, pleading the extreme youth of the lovers. Then Beatrice had gone abroad. Their half-forbidden correspondence had flourished for a time, then ceased as the man became more and more engrossed in his work. At twenty she had married, and from a worldly point of view the match was an excellent one, and certainly was not a bad one from any point.

"Beatrice," he exclaimed quickly, "do you know that you are far more beautiful than even I ever dreamed possible?"
"Gerald!" she tossed back, and her voice was young and full, "do you know that I'm to be thirty in little less than

"Thirty," he repeated absently. "Twelve For a little while neither spoke. The warm color died out of the woman's cheeks, leaving them white and She sat staring vacantly over the great room, now filled with a well-dressed hungry throng. The first months of her widowhood she had passed in restless travel, and although longing eagerly for a sight of her native land, had absolutely clung to her self-imposed term of mourning. But with the waning of the long summer days had come her release, and in the following October she sailed for America—and him. Upon her arrival she had wistfully searched the papers for news of the man whose farewell kiss of twelve years ago still lingered in her memory. In the excitement of the sudden encounter in the restaurant, where she had gone to escape the tedium of a formal dinner, she had forgotten all him else save the great joy of seeing and hearing the well-beloved instinctively, Beatrice felt that next words would be decisive, and perhaps silence for ever the golden dreams, which, all unchecked, had been ing her thoughts. Half unconscious-she hoped that the erstwhile eagerly awaited minute might pass, bringing but a commonplace or lightly uttered

"I have never married, Beatrice." The brief sentence sounded strangely sweet to the listening woman. Stiffing the glad cry which sprang to her lips, she slowly comprehe the full meaning of those half-whispere words. Her happiness was now assure and complete, and the long months waiting and suspense had not been in vain. The idol of her girlhood, the man whom she had steadfastly loved despite eight years of wedlock with another was so near that she had but to reach out one trembling hand to feel his strong answering clasp, and there was nothing in all the wide world to separate them again. She was free, and he had never wed. Her heart caught up the words and, setting them to glad triumphant music, sang them over and over. She remembered with a trace of bitterness the careless inuendos of her friends as they spoke of him, but quickly banished them as false or trivial. The soft glow deepened in her face and the long lashes were moist as their eyes met in a sweet, lingering "But you-you did not remember," was saying, and the faint reproach underlying the tones jarred harshly. "You are married," he concluded sadly. The heart of the woman gave a quick, startled bound. Was it possible that he did not know? She thought of her black gown, relieved only by the large knot of fragrant violets resting amongst sombre folds of the rich velvet. threw him one quick, penetrating glance, and a sudden nameless dread seemed to seize and hold her speechless. "Slightly," assented Gerald, adding.

"May I drive out there with you?" "If you will," she answered, and the overing clouds of doubt and lifted, and she smiled shvly up into his eyes as their hands touched in the adjusting of her long cloak. Leaving the restaurant, they hailed a passing four-wheeler and were soon being driven towards the home of Beatrice's friend and hostess. "Won't you come in?" she asked cordially, as they drew up under the electric lights of the great port cochere.
"Yes," he answered, and bidding the driver wait, followed her up the broad "Mr. and Mrs. Dexter are dining out," droned the solemn butler, in response to Beatrice's queries. Gerald caught a glimpse of great de-

My appetite was fitful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl.

Mrs. M. E. Hughson, 347 East Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks Produce Displacements. Apparently trifling incidents in woman's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started.

The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action.

Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E.

Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints, - that bearing-down feeling, weak back, falling and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system. Its record of cures is the greatest in the world, and should be relied upon with confidence.

FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

The predicament in which the city is placed regarding the building of the aeriai ferry bridge is peculiar. The contracting company cannot build it before the expiration of its time limit next May. The work of the Y. M. C. A. has grown so among the college students, because it has tried not to dwarf any of the impulses of the young vigorous man, but to guide him aright. It has sought not to make his development one-sided, not to prevent his being a man, but to see that he is in the fullest sense a man and a good man. (Applause.) Although Mr. Neff was a member of that committee his signature was not attached to the report. This the Fourth ward alderman explained by saying that the report had been drawn up and recommended by the aeriat ferry commission, and he had declined to sign it for the reason that he was unwilling to go on record for any extension of time even in the face of the present discouraging situation. Mr. Neff was frank to say that while he was anxious to have the city go ahead and cancel the contract, refuse all extensions of time, and bring suit to recover damages on the company's bond, he realized that the unincumcompany made it possible for that corporation to delay the bridge building for years. The aldermen decided to make absolutely no propositions to the company, either directly or indirectly, until they have given the situation another week's As the matter stands at present, the ity officers do not believe that the Duluth Canaj Bridge company has any contract for the structural steel necessary, nor are the city officers satisfied that the company has any reliable contract for the building of the bridge. If the council finally adopts the resolution presented in the committee report, it will merely indicate that the bridge corporation must give an adcquate guarantee that both the steel and construction work is contracted for with reliable concerns before any application for an extension of one year will be considered. By request, Alderman Watson Moore introduced an ordinance granting a general power franchise to the Great Northern Power company. the Cokefair interests-with the same object in view-the furnishing of cheap power for Duluth. At the time the Highland Canal and hill top and the franchise right restricted the company to that purpose. Since that time it has been found that the desired water power can be furnished more quickly and with less expense than the Highland plan by simply earrying out a new system for developing the St. Louis river water power, recently acquired by the Cokeair interests. It was first thought that the franthise granted the Highland Canal and Power company could be amended so as to cover the St. Louis river development, but this was given a knock-out blow by section 476 of the city charter, which says that the city shall not extend, or grant any additional or further favor or privilege to any franchise for a longer term than five This made it necessary to organize a new company and a new franchise which, so far as possible, is merely a copy of the old.

Aldermen Haven, Krumsleg and Wing have been assigned the duty of keeping track of all bilis presented during the current session of the legislature that are likely to affect Duluth.

Cuban Reciprocity Treaty Having a Very Hard Time.

New Complications Have Now Arisen In the Senate.

Senator Bailey Has a Three-Day Speech to Deliver.

Washington, Jan. 20 .- While it is th general belief that the resolutions adopt ed at the recent meeting of the American Beet Sugar association, withdrawing all objections to the pending Cuban reciprocity treaty, will result in the ratification of the treaty, it is still a long way from becoming a law.

The beet sugar people having been assured that the 20 per cent concessions to Cuban sugar would be the sum total of all future reductions, agreed to lay down all future reductions, agreed to lay down their hand and to gauge their future operations accordingly.

It has been said that the beet sugar men come to some mutual understanding with the sugar trust interests, but whether they did or not, their convention and the resolutions adopted, placed new obstacles in the way of ratification. The beet sugar managers are a shrewd organization. They had representatives in Cuba all summer looking into the situation. And it may be of interest to those who have so valiantly advocated the cause of Cuba to consider the exact facts which exist today. acts which exist today. In the first place there is a decided and extensive opposition in Cuba to the Bliss-Palma convention otherwise designated as the Cuhan reciprocity treaty. The Cuban-European mercantile element in Cuba, together with the opponents to the administration of President Palma in Cuba are strongly opposed to the proposition of a general Cuban-American treaty of commercial reciprocity.

Article 4 of the Bliss-Palma instrument will secure for American importers such pronounced advantages over European importers that if such article is adopted nothing short of an American monopoly of the Cuban trade would result. And such a result is looked upon as the certain forerunner of ultimate Cuban an-

On Jan. 3, this year, the European-Cu-ban commercial element organized the International Chamber of Commerce of Cuba. This organization opposes a general commercial reciprocity treaty be-tween the United States and Cuba and is opposed to the administration of Palma. The representative of the beet sugar interest in Cuba informed the home opposition of this opposition. Whereupon the beet sugar convention forthwith in a resolution withdrew its opposition to the 20 per cent concessions on sugar, but the convention deliberately refused to recommend the adoption of a general reciprocity convention such as is proposed under article 4 of the treaty. This will necessitate amendments to the treaty and it will be sent back to Cuba for action by the Cuban congress, and the amended treaty will then become the subject of renewed international negotiations. Finally after the amendments have been agreed to, the question arises, and it is a mighty serious question, as to whether the treaty will be a constitutional instrument or not, until it shall have been passed upon by the United States house of representa-Senator Bailey, it is said, has a three-day speech on the constitutional points involved. Heretofore that organization has been charged with holding up and delaying action. But since it has consented to the 20 per cent reduction and abandoned all opposition, Cuban reciprocity does not seem to have made any material progress.

By Army and Navy Officers In Eight-Hour Bill.

Some Think That It Is an Iniquitous Measure.

Fear It Will Retard Plans For Harbor Improvements.

> From The Herald Washington Bureau.

Washington, Jan. 20 .- (Special to The Herald.)-Army and navy officers on duty in the war and navy departments are taking an intense Interest in the bill now before congress which provides that persons engaged on all government contracts shall not work more than eight hours a day. The proposed naval bureaus which are depending on private contracts for carrying out projects for the betterment of the flect and the preparation of the standing army for a hostile emergency. Most of these flicers have decided views on the subject of the advisability of this legislation and are anxious to be called upon to express them before the proper com-

"My attention was first drawn to this bill," said an officer of the navy department, "through hearing that under its terms it would be necessary to employ only civilians as government | now under construction would be uninstance it is thought that Gilchrist, the contestant, a Clark Democrat, will be given the seat. Taken all in all, the present session of the legislature promises to be one of the most exciting in the history of the state, once settled down to business. This is saying a great deal, eonsidering that at saying a great deal, present session of example—and I give it because there was an actual occurrence of the sort—how would a civilian, or, in fact, any one except a sea-going naval officer, ence on warships in commission. For the eight-hour law. every previous session there has been a vacaney in the upper branch of the federal congress. But it goes without saying or kitchens? Yet on one of the ships that Heinze is going to make the fight of his life to control the senate, although he has given up hope of securing the house. At the same time Gov. ocrats, as was shown in last fail's campaign.

The most important legislative development of the week was the gyrating career of the woman suffrage bill in the senate. It was reported upon by the judiciary committee, which recommended its indefinite postponement. A vote was demanded by the suffragists, which resulted in a tie. Lieut. Gov. Higgins, who was presiding, misunderstood the motion he had put to the senate, and voted against the motion to postpone. Later, he rectified his mistake and announced that he had intended to vote the other way. Consequently the bill was indefinitely postponed.

There from cinders and ashes.

"But I am putting up a straw man to knock him out. I have satisfied myself that the fear of the substitution of civilians for expert naval officers through the appropriations of the new eight-hour bill is without fundation. There is nothing in it to prevent the assignment of naval officers to duty as inpectors of government work done under private contract. But my study of this proposed legislation has convinced me that it is one of the most in-The next day the author of the bill vinced me that it is one of the most inwas on hand with a petition from the liquitous measures ever brought before was on hand with a petition from the women of the state for presentation to the senate. This was done, and now the women are happy again.

It furnishes the opportunity for retarding the completion of work of national importance which for reason of good sense and patriotism must be delayed. Look at the delays we have experienced in the construction of warships. It takes more than three years to build a seagoing armored vessel, even with shipyards working men ten and twelve hours a day. The time limit allowed hours a day. The time limit allowed That the bill will be rejected ultimately, however, admits of little doubt, as it takes a two-thirds vote in both houses to secure its adoption—it being in the form to secure its adoption—it being in the form was forty-two months, or three years of a constitutional amendment. the regular per diem working period is not less than ten hours. Under this proposed legislation I do not see what there will be to prevent anybody from curtailing the hours of workmen engaged in producing things which may ultimately be purchased by the government. Suppose the commissary department of the army wanted 1,000,000 pounds of bacon for a military expedition and was obliged to go into the open market in order to get it quickly. The whole bacon output of the United States might be affected by the claim that some of the bacon of every packing house was being sold to the government. It might be held, therefore, that none of the workmen in these packing houses was permitted under the law to work more than eight hours "Take a better example. The navy cannot operate without coal. It is its very life. The navy department contracts with a coal company for a stated amount of fuel to be delivered at stated places. The company also furnishes railroads, factories, and, in fact, the general public. Most of its output goes to private concerns and not to the navy. But who is to determine which of every ton mined is to go to the government and which to a private concern? Certainly the company would be amenable to the eight-hour law to some degree. What is there to prevent the law from being applied to his general output? Thus not only the government would have to wait for the coal necessary to run its vessels of war, but private concerns would be obliged to wait also. How the distinction is to CIGARETTE COUPONS. Law to Prevent Tobacco Trust Using Them.

Washington, Jan. 20.—Secretary Shaw has made a favorable report on the resolution forbidding tobacco manufacturers from placing gift coupons in tobacco, cigar and cigarette packages. The resolution was introduced by Representative Ottjen of Milwaukee at the request of many independent dealers, great and small, and is aimed at the tobacco trust, which has cut into the independent trade by distributing these coupons. The secretary also suggests that the prohibition be extended to packages of snuff and plug tobacco, both being among the trust's products, Falls, Minn., fell and dislocated her shoulder. She had a surgeon get it back in place as soon as possible, but it was quite sore and pained her very much. Her son mentioned that he had seen Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised for sprains and soreness, and she asked him to buy her a bottle of it, which he did. It quickly relieved her and enabled her to sleep, which she had not done for several days. The son was so much pleased with the relief it gave his mother that he has since recommended it to many others. For sale at Boyce's Drug store.

It is not thought that Abley and King Brady have been operating together. King Brady has made this city his headquarters for years. While officers have shadowed the latter for the past five years, he has never had to serve any time greater than a short period in jail. He is thought to be at the head of another gang operating much in the same manner as Abley. Several indictments now hang over Abley, and one conviction for robbery, but as there seems to be a possibility of some of the men under arrest to continue their confessions the judge has as yet thought best to withhold sentence. COPPER GOSSIP. Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The Engineering and Mining Journal figures a stock of copper on hand December 31, 1902 of 65,08 tons, against 94,009 tons, or twenty per cent. Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The 5½ point decline in Daily West to 36½ was due to selling pressure on the part of holders who anticipate a reduction in dividend from present monthly rate of sixty cents. The company is a very large producer of silver and the decline in this metal has naturally unfavorably affected the rest of the silver producers. Hornblower and Leland were the principal sellers. Boston to Paine, Webber & Co.: The realizing in coppers which began yesterday was continued this morning. The column was continued this morning and selling was only moderate in volume and it was accompanied mostly with good buying orders on fractional declines. The reduction of its dividend by the Quincy Mining company caused no pressure to sell the stock. The reason apparently was that the dividend represents last year's quotations on 11% cent copper. There is a wide spread confidence, i int this year copper will be sold at a substantially higher average price. On this reaction it should do to buy.

For the general informaerable bearish talk has been going the rounds in trade circles and there has been a manifest effort on the part of Amalgamated interests to check the eager buying movement by consumers, which started two or three weeks ago. Lake copper is now selling at 12¼ to 12% cents per lb., electrolytic at 12½ and castings at 12½ cents. Those in touch with the market say that offerings are at all times very small, and also that consumers generally admit that their needs have been cared for only one to three months in advance. Should anything happen to cause a renewal of the buying demand the prospect is that the price of Lake copper would quickly cross 13 cents.

The available stocks of copper in existence at present are estimated by three leading authorities to be just about 100,000 pounds. Almost as much as this is necessary to the proper conduct of bused two or three weeks ago. Lake copper hecessary to the proper conduct of business. Much of this is in transit, or held by selling agencies to supply any sudden demand that may arise. Casey says there the statutes of Wisconsin a gross earnare surplus stocks aggregating nearly 300,-000,000 pounds, and that supplies increased more than 160,000,000 pounds last year. His argument is apparently based on an assumption that there was no increase in assumption that there was no increase in copper consumption last year as a result of the decline in prices from 17 to 12 cents per pound. If Mr. Casey will repeat his latest statement in a school for the blind he may find believers. Every one who has eyes, however, knows better. campaign of destruction, the aim of which was to force its competitors to enter into an agreement to produce less copper and to assist in the effort to maintain prices at an abnormally high level. The campaign was unsuccessful, and those who went forth to smash the price of copper to 8 cents per pound were forced to return with dropping crest and battered helmet. It was proved and demonstrated for all time that the agency of warfare could not introduce peace into the copper could not introduce peace into the copper trade. The law of supply and demand, however, has since produced a harmony however, has since produced a harmony of conditions that is much more desirable and satisfactory than enforced peace could possibly be. The lesson taught by the past year of copper warfare has been a valuable one. It has demonstrated that there is a market for almost unlimited supplies of copper at a price that will yield a fair profit on the output of a major portion of the established mines of the United States. This experience promises to have a shaping influence on the trade agreement, which will surely be reached later, with the result that the

As yet the copper share market has not developed much breadth. The greater part of the trading has been confined to three or four specialties. Sentiment, how-ever, has been steadily growing more hopeful and confident. There are many who are ready to buy as soon as they are convinced that the upward trend of prices has more than a sentimental basis. Had it not been for the two or three reactionary days in the metal markets and heavy selling of Amalgamated, which was met around 65, the class of buyers above referred to would have been in the market before now and prices would have been much higher. On the whole, however, it is perhaps better that sensationalism should be avoided at the start. If metal market conditions have improved sufficiently to warrant higher prices it is better that the advance should come as the improvement has, gradually and naturally. There is not a vestige of doubt in the mind of the writer that conditions are extremely favorable to much higher prices for the better class of copper stocks. We

Eight District Federation tion. Becomes Permanent Organization.

Constitution and By-Laws Adopted -- Delightful Address.

State President Mrs. La Penotiere of Minneapolis Here.

The first session of the club women of the city and their visitors was held this morning in the club room of the library. The object of the meeting was to decide whether or not it was advisable to form an Eighth district federation. The meeting was called to order by Mrs. Douglas Creeley, the district vice president, and the invocation was given by Mrs. A. W. Brad-

The address of weicome was given by Mrs. J. L. Washburn. She began by saying that it gave her great pleasure to address to them her carefully prepared, extemporaneous speech, went on with it: "It is with open hands and open hearts that we welcome you here today. We wish that there were more of you and that you were going to stay longer. We have had a busy week, but a week fuli of could get work. The district meetings are excellent training schools to fit club women to take part in the more difficult work of the state federation. They go home from these meetings, with a lighter heart, and a great many pleasant thoughts a deeper enthusiasm and a thoughts, a deeper enthusiasm, and a stronger faith in human nature, sustains stronger faith in human nature, sustains the hearts of those busy home-makers, who lay aside their cares and attend these meetings. They bring the club women into that closer acquaintance and sympathy, which is so desirable for the successful accomplishments of our plans.

"One of the most important features of these meetings is that unfederated ciubs are invited to attend, bringing them in direct touch with federated work, and often proves the means of their joining the state federation. Those meetings aid reciprocity, and help us to understand more clearly and intelligently the aims and purposes suggested for our consideration by by the national and state federations. We go home from these meetings with better ideas of what makes life worth living, with new thoughts of domestic science, manual training, civil service reform and all other reforms connected with civil life of our communities. While above all else, the smaller meetings with interesting programs and great opportunities for sociability tend to broaden our minds to increase enthuslasm and make us realize more fully 'that unity is strength.' I hope your clubs will try and promote the good work advised by our state federation, particularly manual training in our public schools, and a state reformatory for women."

ADVERTISE.

Jobbers Will Begin to Boom Merchants' Excursions.

The general agents of the railroads running into Duluth met at the Commercial club this morning with the jobbers and wholesalers interested in the coming merchants' excursions into this city from surrounding states. The excursion dates as decided upon by the jobbers at their meeting yesterday afternoon were referred to the railroad men for consideration, and the railroad men were all in favor of the cut rates at that time, though there was some criticism as to the policy of holding the excursions into Duluth at the same time as the excursions were running into the Twin Cities. It was argued that Duluth, in this way, might get only those buyers who had looked over everything in Minneapolis and St. Paul, and who ran up here when they found that they could not find what they wanted there. The dates will stand, however, and the railroad men wiii do ail in their power to push the excursion along. The jobbers will begin sending out their circulars and printed matter showing the benefits of the trip to Duluth in a day or two, and results will

The visitors were royally entertained by the local organization at Kansas City, one of the social features being a big banquet at which over 4000 were entertained. Sixty Years Since Treason Trial Has Occurred In London.

London, Jan. 21.—The trial of Col. Senate Resolution Declaring For Repeal of Lumber Tariff.

(From a Staff Correspondent.)

St. Paul, Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)—The Young resolution, calling for the investigation of the railroad pass matter, was effectually buried this morning in the house, according to the most approved methods of parliaup by its author, indefinitely postponed motion of an opponent, and the that opponent moved to reconsider it. That motion being lost, the resolution is finally disposed of, and cannot be brought up again. In ealling the resolution up Mr. Yoerg, of St. Paul, who introduced it, moved its adoption and said that it was to clear up the charges made by President Mellen, of the Northern Pacific, that passes had been improperly used. Passes are issued as a courtesy to the members, enabling them to go home oftener during the recesses than they would if they had to pay fare, and the speaker in a proper manner. But the resolution called for the investigation of passes ssued to others besides members of the legislature, such as county officers, business men, etc. Mr. Yoerg did not think county officers should have passes, and he understood even judges of the district courts took them. He did not believe any member of the legislature would permit his vote to be influenced by the possession of a pass. If the pass privilege has been abused the legislature is entitled to know the particulars and to know who abused them, in order that the finger of suspicion might not point at all. Passes Issued to people in business act in the nature of a rebate, and ought investigation. Mr. Rosenwald, of Lac Qui Parle, came to the front with a motion directng the committee on public accounts expenditures to look into the matof curtailing legislative expenses and report within five days whethe gr not anything was possible along this line without interfering with the public service. He read from the house rules showing that it was the committee's luty to look into state matters in general to see if expenses cannot be cut. Mr. Burns of Fillmore wanted to know if it was necessary to make a motion if it was so laid down in the rules. "I think it is a splendid idea," replied the gentleman from Lac Qui Parle. A notice of debate was given, and the chair, holding that that could be done with a motion, the matter went over to tomorrow. A dozen bills were introduced, none of any particular interest, after which the house adjourned to 10 o'clock tomorrow.

Senator Morgan introduced this morning a concurrent resolution petitioning the Minnesota representatives and senators to work for the repeal of the lumber tariff. Senator Wilson, of Hennepin, gave notice of debate, and it vent over to tomorrow. It recites that he lumber tariff violates the policy of protection; that it is a menace to the existence of the forests and a premium on their destruction; that the supply in the Northwestern states will not last ten years; that lumber is an industry not entitled to protection because the supply is not increased by human agencies; that this country will soon be completely at the merey of the foreign producers of lumber; that the prices of lumber are increasing and the supply is becoming more and more in-

Senator Wilson introduced a new desertion law, providing that in cases against a husband for non-support the wife is a competent witness. It makes desertion of wife and family a misit becomes a felony, punishable by one to two years in the penitentiary or ninety days to one year in the workhouse at hard labor. Sentence will be suspended upon the furnishing of a penal bond by the husband that he will support his family.

Senator Lord introduced another set of amendments to the constitution on taxation. The amendments in his bill are those recommended by the tax commission at the special session of the legislature last winter. The Dunn bill allowing park boards to use money received from the use of parks instead of turning it over to the city treasurer in cities over 50,000 was passed. The capitol bill, appropriating $1,500,000 for the completion of the new capitol, was recommended to pass by the public buildings committee. The senate adjourned to 10 o'clock to-

AT WEST DULUTH

Next Friday evening, at the West for the most popular young lady in Duluth will take place. This will be the third annual contest of this nature. Every person entering the rink is entitled to a vote, and no registration is necessary. The honor of the clerks in the polling booth is said to be above suspicion, and the judges are incorruptible. At the two previous contests the fight was very close, and the amount of wire pulling done by the friends of the contestants would have gone far toward winning any ordinary election. The winners of the two previous contests were both married within a year after winning the prize, and it has consequently come to be considered a talisman much desired by the young ladies

The performance was punctuated by frequent expressions of approval, and Mr. Whiteside was greatly pleased as he said afterwards with this, and the three calls before the curtain that demanded his appearance in that digniand the three calls before the curtain that demanded his appearance in that dignitied situation. Mr. Whiteside's reading of the lines was inspiring to say the least. The manner in which he handled that inevitable stumbling block to countless numbers, the bling block to countless numbers, th sollloquy, was immense. Denmark, and the duel scene, were all put on in a most striking and spectacular manner. While not gorgeous, the scenic dressing was adequate; the lights played a large part in the performance.

It was quite possible for a person with a shadow of an idea of the play or the character to watch understandingly the interpretation of Mr. Whiteside, and that is far more than many others who have assumed this role can offer the public. Pale, young and sorrowful, with an indication of great strength of character beneath, is the Hamlet of Whiteside. He has done it for years. The play is easy for the actor, but it is hard for the audience, as usually presented. Such is not the ease with Mr. Whiteside's presentation. It is only to be regretted that the Lyceum theater did not sell "S. R. O." with such an offering up on its stage.

CUTICURA OINTMENT

Purest of Emollients and Greatest of Skin Cures.

The Most Wonderful Curative of All Time

For Torturing, Disfiguring Humours.

Cuticura Ointment is beyond question the most successful curative for torturing, disfiguring humours of the skin and scalp, including loss of hair, ever compounded, in proof of which a single anointing with it, preceded by a hot bath with Cuticura Soap, and followed in the severer eases by a dose of Cuticura Resolvent Pills, is often sufficient to afford immediate relief in the most distressing forms of itching, burning and sealy humours, permits rest and sleep, and points to a speedy cure when all other remedies fail. It is especially so in the treatment of infants and children, cleansing, soothing and healing the most distressing of infantile humours, and preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, scalp and hair. Cuticura Ointment possesses, at the same time, the charm of satisfying the simple wants of the toilet, in caring for the skin, scalp, hair and hands from infancy to age, far more effectually, agreeably and economically than the most expensive of toilet emollients. Its "Instant relief for skin-tortured babies," or "Sanative, antiseptic cleansing," or "One-night treatment of the hands," or "Single treatment of the hair," or "Use after athletics," cycling, golf, tennis, riding, sparring, or any sport, each in connection with the use of Cuticura Soap, is sufficient evidence

Millions now rely on Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for preserving, purifying and beautifying the skin, for cleansing the scalp of crusts, scales and dandruff, and the stopping of falling hair, for softening, whitening and soothing red, rough and sore hands, for baby rashes, itchings and chafings, as well as for all purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery.

Sword to Be Discarded presence of those who wear it. In fact, By Officers In the Army.

The Largest and Finest quated number of the same of the largest and Finest quated number of the largest number of the larges Printing Office In World.

From The Herald

Washington Bureau. Washington, Jan. 21.—(Special to The Herald.)-Senator-elect Heyburn, of Idaho, who succeeds Senator Heitfield, will be one of the big men in the senate. In fact, he will be the blogest man in that body, having a weight Grover Cleveland, or the latter's postmaster-general, W. S. Bissell, of Buffalo. In reality, in the point of avoirdupois, Heyburn will probably be the heftiest man to occupy a seat in the United States senate since David Davis, of Illinois, presided over that body as president pro tempore during the Forty-seventh congress. David Davis was so enormous in breadth of beam that a special chair had to be constructed to accommodate him, and from a casual glance around the senate chamber today it is probable that there is not a chair in the chamber at present which will comfortably fit the huge frame of Senator-elect Heyburn. Some months ago Senator-elect Heyburn was in San Francisco, where he met Gen. Shafter. A discussion arose store to find scales in order that they might settle the question. To their mutual surprise they were of even pounds in all and what the deuce they eat or drink to put this great amount of flesh on their bones no one knows. Mr. Heyburn is quite well known in Washington, as for many years ' has -made occasional trips here for the purin political matters only in Idaho. Mr. Heyburn comes from Pennsylvania his mother, who lives in Spokane, he used the Quaker "thee" and "thou." It is probable that the sword will soon be discarded as part of the necessary equipment of an officer of the army. One of the strongest arguments against the continued use of that oldest of weapons is made by Col. A. L. Wagner, of the adjutant general's department, as a resuit of his observations of the recent maneuvers at Fort "In many cases," says Col. Wagner, "the first indication of the opposing force was given by the flashing of a bright scabbard in the sunlight. This was a matter of general remark and caused many officers to question why, in the present state of warfare, they are required to carry a weapon which has not a single element of practical utility to compensate for betraying the the sword is a picturesque adjunct for mysterious officials of secret societies, a conventient and comparatively harmless weapon for the duelists of 'Gay Paree' or the students of the German universities and a darling accessory for a dramatic star, but in the hands of military men, under existing conditions of warfare, it is simply an antisentiment and conservatism that might as well retain the cuirass, the morion or the spontoon." The new government printing office will be the largest and finest printing office in the world. It is now nearing completion, after having been in the hands of architects and builders for more than three years. The new structure is a monument to modern architecture. Although plain in design when compared with some of the other government buildings here and elsewhere, it possesses an artistic beauty, and surpasses many of its more elaborate rivals in modern improvements. From the basement to the roof, the building is absolutely fireproof, and is equipped equal to that of either Gen. Shafter, with the latest devices in heating, dumbing and ventilation. From a mechanical point of view the standard of the new office is maintained. Machinery of the most, modern make will be installed, while the motive power will be furnished from the central power plant of the office. The building is seven stories high, built of red brick, with red stone trimmings, and is situated at the corner of G and North Capitol streets, within a half dozen blocks of the United States

It appears that there is grave doubt as to the title of the Yankton Sioux to this quarry, and this doubt has held off ratification of the agreement entered into in 1892. The senate committee on Indian affairs has pigeon-holed the matter, and it is probable that the entire question will eventually be thrown into the courts to determine who really does possess title. The Sissetons have set up a claim to title in this quarry, and the only way to settle the dispute would seem to be through

A TIMBER SALE Is Basis of Suit on Trial In Court.

The civil action of Ebenezer Falcon against Charles F. Leland et al is on trial in Judge Dibbell's room in district court. The plaintiff has brought action to recover money which, he claims, is due him on a timber sale. The complaint states that some time ago the plaintiff bought some timber lands in 68-21 and 67-21, and that the money was furnished by another party interested in the purchase, Mr. Leland being appointed the trustee, and being given the authority under certain conditions to sell the timber at the expiration of a year at the best price he could get. At the expiration of the time the defendant trustee found a purchaser for the timber, and sold it for $1800. The plaintiff claims that the timber was not sold for a price that it should command in market, and now asks for the difference between the selling price and that which he alleges to be the market price.

The result of the interview which Tnomas Lowry, of Minneapolis, had with President Roosevelt with reference to the new federal judgeship for Minnesota, which was reported in a Washington dispatch to The Herald yesterday, is highly pleasing to the friends of Congressman Page Morris, who beentitled to it by reason of his services to the Republican party in the state

Without making an absolute promise to appoint Judge Morris, when the bill creating the office goes into effect next he could see now Judge Morris would be nominated. This would appear to settle the matter definitely, and probably no further efforts will be put forth by the St. Paul people who have been urging the appointment of Judge Hascal R. Brill of the Ramsey county district court. The friends and supporters of Judge Morris have said nothing derogatory of Judge Brill and his ability as a jurist is freely admitted, but it has been contended that Judge Morris is at least his peer in that respect, and has a stronger claim upon the position. The strong endorsements given Judge by the members of the judiciary com- fiy the American flag, giving an immittee that he be appointed, and the united stand of the Minnesota delegation in his favor have had great weight federal bench, and will prove a worthy

The secretary's letter of transmittal was very short, simply reciting the character of the document and alluding to the picturesque and graphic language in which Aguinaido had described the conditions in the Philippines. The secretary attached particular importance to Aguinaldo's expression of a desire to aid the Americans to carry out relief measures and remedy-ing the conditions of the islands.

Aguinaldo says in part: "Profoundly impressed by the sorrows and calamities which afflict my people, and bearing in mind the good intentions which have inspired the acts of civil commission, I have taken heart to present a project of a purely economic character which in my opinion would remedy, if not completely, at least in great part, the precarious situation in which we all find ourselves. "I propose to the honorable civil commission to obtain from congress a loan of $25,000,000 gold, in eash, and also a credit of $80,000,000 gold, which will guarantee the issue of paper to serve as money in the islands. "This sum shall be used for the development and improvement of the Philippines and shall be paid within twenty years, the payments being made in three installments at the end of ten, fifteen and twenty years respectively, and at the rate of $25,000.000 at the end of the first period, which would cancel so much of the credit, and the $25,000,000 and $50,000,000 at the end of the two remaining periods.

WINNIPEG BONSPIEL

Four and Possib'y Five Rinks Going From Duluth.

Visiting Curlers From Scotland to Be Guests of Honor.

Large Lists of Interesting Contests With Handsome Prizes.

The annual bonspiel of the Manitoba branch of the Royal Caledonian Curling club, of Scotland, will be held in the early part of February, opening on catarrh does not realize how loathsome their disease is. They continue their ...'hawking-K'hawking and spitting and spitting about promiscuously until they are shunned by everyone, and the sight of them is enough to make a well person sick. This is not an exaggerated picture. James Atkinson, of Helena, Mont., says: "Twelve years ago I contracted what seemed to be a cold in the head. It soon proved to be a horrible form of catarrh. I tried cough cures, catarrh snuffs, inhalers, and all sorts of remedies, and Wednesday, the 4th. The Winnipeg bonspiels have always been remarkable for the great attendance and the enthusiasm, but this year's gathering of the eurlers will exceed in those respects any ever held.

The great feature which is giving a new attractiveness to the bonspiel is the fact that the twenty visiting curlers from the Royal Caledonian club of Scotland, who are making a tour of Canada, will be at the Winnipeg meeting and will participate in the games. The prospect of measuring their skill against the picked men of the land which the game really claims as its home is that fills every true sportsman with keen delight. The demand for accommodations already threatens to tax the capacity of Winnipeg. Duluth curlers have, however, foreseen the difficulty that might exist and have arranged for the care of as many will go. A house has been secured that will accommodate as many as twenty men, and that will undoubtedly accommodate all who will go from here. It is expected that sixteen men, making four ilnks, will go and there may be five. The program for the big event has been arranged and copies have been received in Duluth. There is a marked change in the events from those that

The New York challenge trophy and the Alfred Dolge trophy continue as the first and second, the first named being an open competition and the latter the international competition between Canadian and American rinks. The third event is a contest open to all rinks for the Brunswick trophy. The five rinks to curl against the Scottish players will be one from Manitoba, one from the province of Manitoba, one from Northwest Ontarlo, one from the Northwest territories and British Columbia and one from the United States. The one rink from the United States will be a Duluth rink, that having been agreed upon. The winning side will play down for the trophies. The sixth event is for the Tetley Tea tankard, and will be played for as was the old Galt trophy, one rink from each club playing for it, and that one rink being determined by preliminary competitions in the various clubs. The seventh event, for the American-Abell trophy, is open to all rinks. The eighth event is known as the blue ribbon competition and is "Winnlpeg against the field." Six rinks from the Granites, five from the Thistles and four from the Assiniboines, all of Winnipeg, will play fifteen rinks, made up as follows: Three from Northwest territories, six from Manitoba, two from Northwest Ontario, one from the United States, one from associations outside of the Manitoba branch and two from the visiting Scotch cur-

The ninth event is the consolation, open to all rinks defeated in the first draw or extra series of the three open events. It is for the McMillan cup. The tenth event is for the Whyte cup, open to rinks composed of members all of whom are above 50 years of

In addition there will be the usual point competition. In all of the events the prizes are very handsome.

The postponement was taken to permit George Robson, one of the jurors to go to Chippewa Falls, Wis., where his father is dangerously sick, a telegram having been received by Mr. Robson to that effect. Afer a conference between Mr. McClintock and Alexander Marshall it was a least a least and Alexander Marshall it was a least a leas ander Marshall it was decided that under the circumstances the juror should be excused. Their action was commended by the court.
One of the features of the trial during the early part of the afternoon was the motion of Mr. Marshall that the county attorney should be compelled to place on the stand three of the witnesses that ap-peared before the grand jury. These witnesses were George McEwen, the piano player: Oliver Herman, the violin playe at Mackey's house, and Press Wade, al of whom were eyewitnesses to the shooting. Mr. Marshall argued that the state had singled out a single witness. Joseph Hines, a chum of Riley's to testify, and had not called other witnesses to the affray. The motion was denicd.

The defense is along the line of self-defense. Mr. Marchall, in opening his defense. Mr. Marshall in opening his case to jury stated that when Riley and Hines entered Mackey's saloon a few mornings previous to the shooting, there were two drunken Austrians asleep on the moor. Riley, it was claimed, went through the pockets of one of the men and was caught in the act by the parten-der, O'Brien, who made him give up the Lehtonen, who is a Finlander, told the court his story through an interpreter the other day and his case was taken under advisement. He has a wife and family in the old country, whom he claims to support. He also informed the court that he was not a drinking man.

Judge Ensign was favorably impressed with Lehtonen's appearance and story, and said he was inclined to believe the defendant would be law abiding in the future. He gave warning, however, that future. Heavy Liquidation.

Chicago, Jan. 21.—The wheat market continued to advance strongly today, May opening 1se to 3se higher at 795s to 80%c. Firm cables, light receipts and the reported strength of the cash situation were the supporting factors and the market advanced early to 80½c. This was in the face of heavy-siquidation led by St. Louis interests. A reaction of 1½c followed, but the strength of the market seemed unabated. The leading long, so far as could be learned, did but little trading. Local receipts were 45 cars, none of contract grade. Minne-polis and Duluth reported 284 cars, making a total for the three points of 329 cars, against 288 last week and 316 a year ago.

Later May touched 80% 42c, but reached to 80%c on heavy liquidation. A further rally to 80%c resulted from a strengthening of the cash situation and the close was strong, May %40%c over yesterday at $35%.61%c. was strong, May %0%c over yesterday at 50% 0½c.

Oats were in fair demand chiffy because of the wheat strength. May opened 1sc to 16 higher at 36% c to 36% c, sold to 36% c. Local receipts were 193 cars.

A sharp advance in hogs made holders tighten their grip on provisions and a small demand was sufficient to run up prices. May pork opened 2½ c to 17½ c higher at $16.75 to $16.90, later selling to $16.77½; May lard opened 2½ c to 7½ c up at 15.75 to $16.90, later selling to 15.75 to 15.75 to $16.90, later selling to 15.75 to 15.75 to $16.90, later selling to 15.75 to 15.75 to $16.77½; May lard opened 2½c to 7½c up at $9.65 to $9.70, and May ribs, with a like advance, at $9.25 to $9.30.

The representatives had all heard from their employers after the recent announcement that the rates would be given on all the roads coming into the After the meeting was called to order the association road representatives made their statement to the jobbers. They told the Duluth business men that as a result of the oversight on their (the jobbers') part, the Western Passenger association would not permit its roads to participate in the cut rate for the coming excursion. To those who have never penetrated the mysteries of one of these resorts, a description of a typical gambling house may be interesting, says the Brooklyn Eagle. Take one in West Thirty-first street, Manhattan, familiarly known as "The Awning," because the ground floor was until recently used as an awning store and awnings covered the windows on all the floors above. This place was also referred to as "The Engle Bird," from a large gllt eagle over a large safe in one corner of the place. The place, like all others, is guarded on the outside by an "outside lookout," who, while apparently strolling easuar ly along the street, keeps a sharp watch for raiders, and carefully serutinizes all who approach the entrance. If anything seems wrong he may press an electric button concealed under some adjacent stoop, give a loud and peculiar whistle, knock in a prearranged way on the door, ring the bell vigorously, or, as in one particular instance, push the lid of the letter slat in the door violently back and forth. In this ease the metal slot, when pushed back, struck two nails driven into the door just above it on the inside. These nails were connected with electric wires, and the circuit being completed, a warning warning bell was rung up-

If all is well, the regular client knocks at the door or rings the bell, and immediately a little wicket in the door is opened and a negro's face looks out. If the doorkeeper, who in the more pretentious places is always in full dress after nightfall, recognizes the caller, he opens the door and carefully locks it behind him again. He then calls to a second doorkeeper, who unlocks a second door, and the visitor is now within the place proper.

It was soft and dirty, but they pressed it into bricks. They called the bricks "briquettes noires," but hat dld not hurt their burning, and Bollng grew like Jonah's gourd. She likened him to a knight of old and fancied him in satin shorts, yellow shoes, a tralling cloak and a velvet cap with sable plume, scaling the impossible wall of an impossible tower to snatch her from imprisonment, bearing her away upon a coal-black steed whose iron hoofs struck sparks from the filinty highway and sending back to baffled pursuers a deflant "Ha-ha!" "It is not," he answered stoutly, "and Matlida assented. She would have assented just then if he had asked her to stand on the front porch of her boarding house and dance with castanets. Never in the following days did she know the "reasons," or seek to know them. She was in a day-dream of delight and she told herseif that not a princess of fairy lore had week and he never came without a gift. He seemed to be made of gems. She waked in the morning with a dull throb in her head and there was a faint sickening odor of chloroform about her room. The steelbound casket was gone.

Three days later she left her boarding house to hide her wounds. Her patrons knew nothing of her love experience, and she taught patiently, but dully. A month afterward one of the dailies printed five columns about Orlando Jencks. It said that his name was Simon Dare; that he columns about Oriando Jencks. It said that his name was Simon Dare; that he was known as "Big Si," a most expert cracksman; that he was author of the many jewel robberies which had set soci-ety folk of Bolling crazy with fright; that he had made love to an ancient malden and used her as a bank of deposit until he got ready to take his plunder with him that he had not been caught and probably was in South America with $500,0000 worth This, however, did not interest Matilda; she does not read the papers. His salary didn't amount to much, for he was only an assistant pastor and what little he did get was evidently devoted to purposes other than paying his board. At any rate, he didn't pay it. I put up with his excuses for several weeks, but finally his bill reached such proportions that I had to call a halt. One day when he came home from a noon-day meeting told him so.

"'Anybody would think,' he said 'that you are afraid I am going to cheat you. You needn't worry. Men of my calling don't do that sort of thing. I'm not going to run away.'

Thank heaven I'm not inquisitive.'
"'You wouldn't have learned anything if you were,' she said, coolly, 'unless you had asked me. I'm the only one who knows. This is Mr. Selleck's coffin. He was cremated and here are his ashes.'

"A kind of sinking feeling came over me, and I felt as weak as a cat. "Wind didn't you tell me so at first." I asked. 'You might have had it if you'd asked for it. I wouldn't be mean enough to keep a sacred relic like that.' "Mrs. Selleck cried more. 'I didn't like to say anything about it.' she said. 'I've always been rather sensitive on the subject. I was afraid people would think foolish, and, anyway, I knew you'd take good care of it."

"And when I cough of how I had gone to sleep night after night with that man's ghost huddled up within two feet of my head I got so dizzy that I couldn't possibly control myself.

"I had another queer experience while living in the Forty-fourth street house. My most interesting boarder was Mrs. Selleck. She was young, good-looking and a widow.
